Current Events

—By Arthur Brisbane—

(Copyright, 1924, by Star Company)

RUSSIANS want the name of Petrograd changed to Leningrad. The change may be made, but the name will be changed back in some new Russian development.

It will go back eventually to "St. Petersburg," in honor of the great Peter whose will established the city in a dismal cold swamp of the North.

Dr. Semashko announces that Lenin's brain weighed 1,340 grammes, not an unusual weight. The brain of Turgenieff weighed 2,000 grammes. That of the great naturalist, Cuvier, was even heavier, but the convolutions in Lenin's brain were extraordinarily deep. That is what counts.

THE DEEPER the convolutions the larger the surface of the brain, and all thinking is done close to the brain's surface, just as all crops are raised, close to the earth's surface.

In the depths of the today-brain, doubtless, as in the depths of the earth, are hidden great treasures not yet developed.

RUSSIA mourns Lenin. The highest officials staggered through the streets, five miles, carrying Lenin's body and heavy coffin on their shoulders.

Tens of thousands stood bareheaded with temperature below zero. A few at least will go to join Lenin on the other side of the river.

INTERESTING, historically, is the rallying of the Holy Synod by the Archbishop of the Greek-Russian Church to declare Lenin officially a Christian. Actually he was about as much of a Christian as he was Mohammedan or Fire Worshiper.

The idea is to endear Lenin and his government to the religious millions of Russian peasants. They will have a higher opinion of Lenin and his government if they believe that he is in heaven, not in hell, where infidels go.

NORTH CAROLINA forbids teaching in public schools "any form of evolution which makes it appear that man descended from any of the lower order of animals, monkeys, or anything else."

The North Carolina authorities should also forbid study of embryology. It is discouraging to find, in embryonic conditions, that human beings in the period before birth, pass through various animal stages, duplicating virtually all of them from the single cells to the full developed "primate."

AT ONE stage of his development before birth every man has two feet like a gorilla. Sometimes one of the feet does not develop, and the man is born with one gorilla foot, which we call a "club foot."

That can easily be arranged by forbidding the teachers to say anything about embryology. If you don't like facts, why smother them.

ONE MAN'S remedy is another's man's sorrow. The Rochester medical authorities, discovering that lack of iodine in drinking water caused disease, especially goitre, added to water the iodine that the people need.

But wafer is not always drunk plain. Some people employ it to make home brew. The iodine kills the yeast germ in the vats of the home brewers and the beer

COLD TEA TRAPS QUACK

Maniac Tries To Kill West End Family

BIG FARMER IN FRENZY SUBDUED BY POLICE

Beats Parents, Chokes Baby, Awes Rescuers and Tries to Leap From Window

Zachary Andrewsbuts, a giant farmer employed on a Pride's Crossings estate was seized with a religious mania in the lodging house of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Michealis, No. 11 Barton street, West End, and attempted to kill the Michealiks and their infant child.

The mad man was finally subdued by Patrolmen McGervan and Beaunets of the Joy street station, but not until he had nearly committed suicide by trying to jump head first out of a third story window.

Andrewsbuts was in the kitchen of the lodging house with the Michaelis and the infant was lying in a crib.

Suddenly he seized a bicycle pump, which was convenient to his hand, and shouted:

"We must kill all."

He then attacked and knocked down both Michaelik and his wife, several times with the bicycle pump.

Noting the infant he seized it by the throat and was choking it when Mrs. Michaelik crawled to him and began to claw him with her nails. Her husband, who had also been knocked down, rose and the two succeeded in diverting the madman's attention from the baby.

The stairways of the tenement were crowded with people and finally two men rushed the big fellow. His bicycle pump had been smashed to bits over the heads of his host and hostess, and he seized a horse whip and attacked the newcomers.

They beat a hasty retreat after being slashed with the whip.

When the police arrived the street was in a turmoil. The ravings of the maniac had risen to a scream of rage and the crowds were too terrified to oppose him.

When the police appeared in the doorway the big Pole attacked them with the whip and they were painfully slashed with it. They grappled with him, however, and were mauled and beaten by him for several minutes.

Suddenly he broke away and leaped through the window sash, head-first. The officers grabbed him by the feet and drew him back into the room, where the struggle was resumed.

The patrolmen were compelled to resort to their clubs and beat the madman into unconsciousness. He

"Chamber of Horrors" Impresses Dupes

South End Quack's "Consulting Room" Stuffed Full of Instruments and Apparatus

DR. BARRONIAN IN HIS DOVER STREET OFFICE

South End quack has his "consulting room" so crowded with medicines and surgical instruments and apparatus that it resembles a Chamber of Horrors. The effect of this remarkable display upon his credulous clientele is obvious. They instantly conclude that he must be a great physician instead of the quack that he was proven to be by American investigators.

FALL'S STORY OF LOAN

TRAP QUACK BY SIMPLE SCHEME

South End Fakir Finds That Perfectly Healthy Young Man Is "Diseased"

You meet today in the Boston American's investigation of greedy medical vultures, preying upon the poor and ignorant of Greater Boston, the "Barney Google" of the quacks, Dr. Neshan Frank Barronian of 43 Dover street, South End.

Dr. Barronian would make a horse laugh.

Given a bottle of iced tea containing two drops of ammonia, the doctor, after a test, told an American investigator that it indicated "the presence of albumen in the kidneys."

He then proceeded to prescribe for "kidney trouble."

Another investigator, healthy, of course, as this newspaper made sure of all its probers, he found to be suffering from a disease, which originated, to be sure, in his imagination.

Then in true quack fashion he brought out the ever-ready pills and held out his hand for money.

Dr. Barronian revealed himself to this newspaper as a quack and a liar.

If the latter term seems harsh he can thank himself.

Any man calling himself a doctor who finds a trace of kidney trouble after an examination of cold tea is not only untruthful but a danger to a community, which is what this newspaper is interested in.

The American in attempting to safeguard the public health, and it is backed in this campaign by the Massachusetts State Medical Association and all reputable physicians, shows up Barronian today for what he is and leaves the rest to the law.

The fact that Barronian was sen-

Fall Sorry He Told of Getting Money From McLean and Sinclair

Washington, Jan. 25 (I.N.S.).—Haggard and obviously broken in spirit by the succession of charges that have been hurled at him in the last two weeks, ex-Secretary of the Interior Albert B. Fall struck back at his accusers today with what he declared to be the "true story" of the famous $100,000 loan.

"There was no connection whatever between the $100,000 loan I received from Doheny and the lease he obtained for naval reserve lands in California," Fall said.

He referred to testimony of E. L. Doheny, president of the Pan American Petroleum Company, before the Senate Public Lands Committee investigating naval reserve leases to private interests. The oil magnate declared he loaned Fall the $100,000 on November 30, 1921, on a promissory note and that no mention has been made since that time about payment of the loan.

The loan was made only shortly before Doheny got the lease for the 37,000 acres in the Elk Hills, California reserve. The money was sent to Fall in Washington from New York in cash, carried in a little black satchel by Doheny's son, "Mr. Doheny loaned me the tenced to a year on Deer Island in 1919 for perjury is of no interest to this newspaper.

MAKES ABSURD CLAIMS TO LONG EXPERIENCE

It would seem that this quack should have profited by that experience. The American makes mention of his past only to show that the sentence was lost as a lesson on the stubby little doctor.

He is still perjuring himself, which he had, but what is worse is that he is perjuring himself at the expense of honest persons who believe when they visit him they are consulting with a bonafide, reputable physician.

How many persons' stomachs are ruined through being fed pills which vultures like Barronian dispense will never be known.

MENACE TO SOCIETY

How many persons Barronian and his quack colleagues rob of hard earned money with their fake diagnoses will never be known.

How many persons have gone to their death through being ruthlessly told they had a terrible disease, when they were strong and healthy, would be tragic if known.

Barronian is a squat little man with fat pudgy hands and a neck that ripples over a collar, habitually soiled.

He affects a black alpaca coat in the office which he calls "my consultation room," the open coat revealing the soiled vest of a dark business suit.

This vest, when the doctor stands, creeps up from his trousers, letting an expanse of wrinkled shirt get a breath of air.

From the peeping bit of soiled shirt one glances to the doctor's papered wall to rest on a fly specked water bottle and a rubber apron.

Then to dirty rubber hose, wool harness, glass tubes, also speckled, and glass cabinets fairly littered with jars of powders and chemicals.

In the cabinets are instruments, forceps and the like.

On open shelves running from the floor six feet up are a thousand and one appliances, medicines, cotton batting, a steam pressure kettle, presumably for sterilizing purposes, a microscope, more hose, et cetera.

BRAGS OF EXPERIENCE

It is in all an impressive, harrowing chamber of torture equipped to impress the ignorant.

Add to it a physician's combination steel and leather table for examination purposes and a steel chair for the sems and even a credulous person is duly impressed. Impressed with the desire to reach the street.

As to a further description of the doctor one only need note the two rings he wears, the looped watch chain with its dangling fob, the stick pin in his necktie and then hear him say, as he did to one of the American's investigators following his verdict on the cold tea:

"I don't like to talk about myself, but I am a man of great experience in the medical and surgical professions. In a long experience in hospital and private practice I have performed and assisted in 18,000 operations!"

In baseball if a player engaged in bragging similar to that of Barronian he would be told he was "popping off."

Still Barronian shakes his shock of black hair and his little black eyes light up behind his tortoise shell glasses with their dark thick rims, when he tells of those 18,000 operations.

He thuds a pudgy fist into the palm of the other hand or else he taps a quiller's knee for emphasis.

INVESTIGATORS CALL

Barronian operates in a fertile field. The South End, or that portion of it where he occupies the first floor of an old fashioned brick house, contains many poor people who would be impressed with a type like Dr. Barronian.

Two of the American's investigators called on the fat doctor on Nov 28.

A young man we will refer to as Jones elected to be the victim.

They entered the doctor's reception room and found it agreeable. It was well furnished and comfortable.

The absence of an assistant was noticeable when the quack himself appeared out of an adjoining room labelled "Private" and greeted his callers.

"Well, well," he said looking from one to the other, "something wrong?"

Jones looked sad and shook his head. "It is I," he said.

"Well, well," said Barronian, "what is wrong?"

"I just don't feel well, doctor," said Jones.

"Hm-m-m, step into my consultation room," Barronian said. He led the way through the door marked "Private." Squatting into a chair which squeaked and motioning his caller to be seated also the fat doctor leaned forward and said:

"Now, what's the matter with you?"

Jones reiterated that he did not feel well "all over."

The doctor. "Well, let me examine your heart and lungs."

He did so with a stethescope, puffing wheezily as he leaned toward his patient, who bared his breast.

"H-m-m," said the doctor, as he laid down his instrument. "Heart's all right, so's your lungs. I think the trouble with you is that you are run down. I'll give you some medicine."

He arose and stepped to his medicine shelves and proceeded to fumble among bottles and cartons. He returned to Jones with a small bottle of liquid and three boxes of pills.

On the liquid was directions. "Two drops twice a day in water." The pills were the usual "before and after eating" variety and "bed time" tablets.

"Take these as directed," said the doctor, "and on Sunday come and see me and bring a sample of water."

Jones said he would follow the directions and added:

"How much do I owe you doctor?"

"Only THREE DOLLARS," the modest Barronian replied.

TEA IS MIXED

Jones peeled three $1 bills from a small roll of money and then looking the doctor full in the face remarked:

"I have plenty of money doctor if you think an operation will be necessary to cure me."

It was a staggering deft to hurl at a quack. To Barronian's credit it can be said he made no attempt to operate on the spot, either on the patient or his bankroll.

He pocketed the $3 he had taken and said, "We'll see about that later. Come back Sunday, sure."

Jones rejoined his brother investigator and they departed.

Then came other patients.

On Sunday, Dec. 2, Jones dropped in on a druggist friend and after a brief chat that gentleman mixed the famous cold tea solution which he took, carefully wrapped, direct to Dr. Barronian.

It was 3:30 when he reached the office of the "Barney Google" quack.

Again the reception room was empty of patients and the great doctor did the receiving.

DOCTOR TRAPPED

"I have brought you that sample, doctor," said Jones as Barronian ushered him into the "consultation room."

"That is fine," said Barronian. "I would like to have you leave it with me. It will take about half an hour to analyze it. Call and see me Tuesday and I shall tell you what I find."

On Tuesday evening Jones returned to the Barronian suite and again it was empty. From the doctor's private office came the strains of a violin. It stopped when Jones entered and the musician who proved to be the doctor appeared.

"Come right in," he said pleasantly.

"I examined the bottle of water," he said as Jones seated himself, "and I find a little albumen in it, not much and not enough to worry about. Have you ever had any trouble with your kidneys?"

Jones said, "No, doctor."

"Well, I'm going to give you some more medicine to thoroughly cleanse your kidneys and then I think you'll be all right."

He gave Jones more pills. This made four different kinds of pills the young man had received in two visits plus a bottle of liquid.

Said Jones: "Shall I continue to take the four other medicines doctor?"

ABHORS DRUG STORES

"Oh yes," replied Barronian, "continue with these until they are gone. Take this at the same time as they will not conflict and come and see me with another sample of water."

"How much doctor?"

"Two dollars for the call and analysis and fifty cents for the medicine," Barronian replied.

Jones paid and while doing so attempted to refrain from smiling. "If," thought Jones, "he finds traces of kidney trouble in cold tea what isn't he liable to find next time."

"By the way doctor," he said, as he picked up his hat with one hand pocketing the new medicine with the other, "I notice you don't write prescriptions to be filled at drug stores."

Whereupon the original Barronian "popped off" again.

"Drug stores," he cried in apparent horror. "My boy, I class drug stores along with blind pigs and cigar shops. I buy my medicines direct from laboratories and then I know they are right when I receive them.

"Why, I spent six years at the Worcester City Hospital, in fact I graduated there in 1906. I have served time in eye and ear infirmaries. In all I have practiced twelve years. In my long experience in private and hospital practice I have performed and assisted in 18,000 operations.

HIS CLAIM ABSURD

"I don't like to talk about myself, but I am a man of vast experience in the medical and surgical profession. I am a member of the faculty of a large medical college. I will show you the catalogue and let you see for yourself."

Jones looked duly impressed, while the great doctor brought forth from a desk a booklet of the College of Physicians and Surgeons, Shawmut avenue, Boston.

"In it," he began, there on medicine and surgery," Barronian declared, ruffling pages to one where his name appeared.

A brief glance and he passed the page and closed the book. For what reason Barronian's name is in the College of Physicians and Surgeons booklet Jones doesn't know. He left after being told once more to return in ten days so that the little specialist could magically exert an ailment out of cold tea.

The American inquired as to Barronian's college affiliations and also investigated that doctor's statement of his record.

Barronian states that he became a physician in 1909 and that he took part since in 18,000 operations.

Simple arithmetic reveals that the great Barronian would have taken part in 24 operations every week from 1909 up to the present time.

A very busy doctor to say the least, especially when it must be recalled that during six months of that time the doctor was at Deer Island and that he was not "operating."

HAS "X-RAY" EYE

The last quarterly announcement of the College of Physicians and Surgeons, No. 617 Shawmut avenue, reveals Neshan Frank Barronian as having graduated from there in the year 1914.

There were thirteen graduates that year. According to the pamphlet eleven received honorable mention as doctors, two became internes.

Clipping five years off Barronian's vaunted experience as a physician one finds his record of having taken part in 18,000 operations truly amazing. It means that he averaged part in more than thirty-eight operations a week or more than five a day.

On December 4 another American investigator, who shall be referred to as Smith, called on Dr. Barronian. He found the reception room vacant of patients and the great doctor not "operating."

"Well," said Barronian, greeting him, "what can I do for you, young man?"

"Why, I was at a party recently," said Smith, "and I don't think I'm well."

"I'm sorry for you," said the great doctor, as he led the way to his consultation room. "A young fellow like you getting that way so young.

"But as long as you are young I can cure you all right. It will cost you $45 for medicine and treatment."

MORE FRAUD

The implication of this quack was that Smith was diseased.

There had been no examination of any kind made by Barronian, yet already he was talking "cure" and price.

In fact the health of Smith had been guaranteed only a day or two before by reputable physicians who examined him.

Barronian invited Smith into his "consultation" room. There he asked a water sample. One hasty look and he said:

"Yes, you are diseased all right. I'll give you some medicine."

He procured more of his famous pills and handed them to Smith, who looked as frightened, as he was supposed to look at such a harrowing verdict. The pills were purple in color, resting in a small yellow box.

"By the way, do you live at home?" asked the doctor, placing pudgy hands on his hips and eyeing Smith appraisingly.

"Yes," replied the "patient."

"Well, I don't know then," said the doctor, looking puzzled. He scratched his head. "You don't want your folks to suspect, do you? I think I'll give you something else."

"Oh, that's all right," said Smith. "I'll look out."

INSISTS ON CASH

"Those are better," said Barronian apparently relieved. "They'll surely cure you. Now I want to give you a local treatment."

Smith after protesting allowed it.

"Well, what about money?" asked the doctor after he had washed his hands. "You'll have to give me something on account."

"I'll give you $2, doctor," said Smith.

"That isn't enough," said Barronian sharply.

"Five dollars," said Smith.

"That's better," said Barronian taking the bill, "but listen, you'll have to come every day for six weeks. When you come tomorrow bring more money. Don't forget."

Smith said he wouldn't. He left with his medicine and an acute smarting from the local treatment, also with a memory of the look in Barronian's fat face when he demanded money.

Smith returned to Barronian's office on December 5 about 6:30 in the evening. He was given two boxes of pills of different colors.

"Bring any money?" the great doctor asked.

"I can give you $3, doctor," said Smith.

"All right," Barronian retorted, taking the money and pocketing it. "Come again tomorrow. Bring more money."

Smith returned two days later. It was about 3 o'clock in the afternoon. For the first time another patient was discovered in the Barronian office. A large, raw-boned colored man was leaving Barronian's private office. His hat lay on a chair in the reception room. Unusual as it may impress the reader, Barronian was talking of money.

"That's all right, doctor," the departing patient was saying. "I'll bring some dough the next time."

Barronian became aware of his new caller. Smith had used a name beginning with "Harry."

"Hello, Harry," said the doctor, "how are you feeling?"

STILL MORE PILLS

As there had never been anything wrong with Smith he felt fine, but of course, did not say so.

"Come in," Barronian invited.

"That local treatment you gave me was awful," said Smith, in Barronian's "consultation room."

"It was kind of strong, Harry," said the doctor.

"Well, I don't want any more. You said you would cure me with medicine. If you can't I might as well quit."

"I'll cure you," said the fat physician. He speedily produced more pills and handed them to Smith. "Take these, I'm sure they will fix you up." This made the third batch of medicine Smith had received within a very few days. He pocketed the pills.

"Bring any money?" asked the doctor.

"Five dollars," said Smith, "guess that ought to satisfy you."

"Thats' fine, Harry, thank you."

Barronian pocketed the bill and invited.

He should have.

He had received $13 from a man physically in fine condition in exchange for a batch of worthless pills and a diagnosis similar to Barronian's guess on the bottle of cold tea.

If the matter wasn't so serious in that it exposes a great public to danger, the antics of Barronian in his South End "consultation" rooms would be humorous.

Tomorrow the American will expose another quack. Back numbers of this great series can be procured at the office of this newspaper. The series began on Monday.

Dr. Barronian Raves With Rage When He Reads Expose

Dr. Neshan Frank Barronian, quack doctor of No. 41 Dover street, South End, was summoned from his bed by his wife, or housekeeper, today to read the American's expose of his fake methods.

First he was pleased with the story—lots of advertising, he said—then he got mad—then he rushed to the front room of his office suite and hastily pulled out the "Neshan Frank Barronian, M. D." sign and hid it.

A little later he slipped the sign back to its place in the window.

The doctor read the American's article while clad in a bathrobe.

"Ha! Ha! I could'nt get that much advertising for $15,000," he cried, after he had finished reading.

The "Ha! Ha!" of the doctor sounded phoney.

It was.

A second later he was unable to contain his wrath. The "Ha! Ha!" was gone.

"The American will pay for this," he shouted.

The papers containing the expose of Dr. Barronian sold quickly. His neighbors were interested. One paused in shovelling off his walk to read the story.

"I'm glad they got that faker," he said.

"My wife, she cut the back of her hand and I sent her to this fellow. He charged $5 to put a couple of stitches in the cut and then he kept her returning to his office for a month, charging her $3 every visit and the cut never got a bit better. I don't know how much I paid him—it was more than $25.

"Then I showed that cut to a relative of mine—a dentist. He said the doctor was just doing something to keep the hand sore. He's a dentist, but he treated that hand himself and my wife got well right away.

"It's good for that guy. They ought to drive him out."

Down the block, an old woman bought a paper.

"It's good someone is getting after that fellow" she told the newsboy. "Once a young fellow was awfully sick and he went to this here fellow Barronian and he wouldn't treat the boy because he didn't have enough money. He wanted $3 and wouldn't take any less. That fellow is getting what's coming to him."

POLICE RAID 4 DOWNTOWN BOOTLEG PLACES; ARREST 4 MEN

RUM SQUAD OPENS UP NEW DRIVE

Four Men Held After Cops Swoop Down and Seize $1,000 in Liquor

Four alleged bootlegging establishments were raided by the police liquor squad and booze valued at more than $1,000 seized. Four men are under arrest, all charged with illegal possession.

Barrett's Tap, a near-beer saloon at No. 164 Court street, was one of the places visited by the squad today. Previous to the raid, John Bowen, employed at the place, is alleged to have sold a pint of "liquor" to Patrolman Petzol of the raiding squad.

The raiders found six quarts of "splits," a concoction of alcohol, water and flavoring extracts. The raiders arrested Bowen and seized the liquor and the paraphernalia used in the manufacture of the "splits."

The other men arrested in the raids were Max Gilbert, Anderson street, West End; Frederick Lawrence, Dudley street, Roxbury, and John Kramer, Dover street, South End.

$100 IN RUM SEIZED.

Police found at the Magnet Mail Order Company, No. 238 Washington street, in the heart of the shopping district, a list bearing the names and telephone numbers of eleven leading Boston hotels.

It was here that liquor valued at $100 was seized and Max Gilbert was placed under arrest. The raid followed the purchase of a quart of liquor by one of the police officers.

The second raid was made at No. 113 State street. A squad of officers armed with a search warrant searched the premises and seized 10 gallons of choice liquors valued at $200. Frederick Lawrence was arrested on charge of keeping and exposing liquor for sale.

One hundred and forty gallons of "moonshine", contained in sixteen cans and packed in five wooden cases, all ready to be shipped, were seized by the police of the East Dedham street station in a raid on the home of John Kramer No. 16 Dover street, South End.

LEGION TO CUT OUT DAISY DAY DRIVES

Members of the executive committee of the State department of the Legion, at a meeting in Springfield, voted to discontinue the "Daisy Day" drives. Individual posts will devise their own means of raising funds to carry on their special work. General Clarence R. Edwards announced today that the State officers felt the public was not in sympathy with a general drive each year for funds, but that individual neighborhoods would willingly support worthy projects of the various posts.

General Edwards also announced that a mass meeting would be held at Symphony Hall on Sunday afternoon, February 3, when speakers will explain the Legion's attitude on the bonus.

WALSH AIMS TO SAVE PUBLIC $650,000,000

Washington, D. C., Jan. 25.—Reopening of the whole tariff fight during the present session of Congress appeared more certain today as a result of a bill filed in the upper chamber by Senator David I. Walsh, Democrat, of Massachusetts, proposing a reduction in the rates on hides and providing that sugar be placed on the free list. Senator Walsh said Democrats of both houses will make a fight for tariff changes on necessaries of life. He estimates that his bill would save consumers of sugar $250,000,000 and consumers of wool $400,000,000. He would reduce the duties on clean wool two-thirds.

Fall Flatly Denied He Got Loan of E. L. Doheny

Washington, Jan. 25.—An amazing contradiction in the testimony concerning the mysterious $100,000 loaned to former Secretary of the Interior Fall developed here.

E. L. Doheny, oil magnate, told the Senate committee he had made a personal loan of this amount in 1921.

Fall recently denied that he had ever received any money from either Doheny of Sinclair.

When Mr. Fall was before the same committee on December 27, 1923, he declared:

"It should be needless for me to say that in the purchase of the Harris ranch or in any other purchase or expenditure I have never approached E. L. Doheny or anyone connected with him or any of his corporations, or Mr. H. F. Sinclair or anyone connected with him or any of his corporations, nor have I ever received from either of said parties one cent on account of any oil lease or upon any other account whatsoever."

4 FISHERMEN RESCUED BY GUARDSMEN

Taken From a Boat Mile Off Nantasket After All-Night Battle With the Seas

Four fishermen, adrift in the storm in a leaking launch in which the motor had broken down, were rescued by Allerton Station Coast Guardsmen today.

The fishing dory, flying a ragged signal of distress, was sighted off Nantasket Beach by Metropolitan policemen. They notified the guardsmen.

They managed to launch a boat in the heavy surf opposite the Nantasket Hotel and found the dory dragging anchor a mile off shore. The fishermen rescued were Captain Mara Shula, Tony Denena, John Coran and Frank Banahillippe, who put out from Plymouth late yesterday afternoon bound for Gloucester with six tons of cod.

They battled the storm all night after vainly casting anchor off Scituate.

Boatswain's Mate E. L. Silva, Machinist's Mate W. G. Rich, Surfman B. F. Trefern, two sub-surfmen and four members of the Humane Society, whose rowboat was used, comprised the rescue crew. A tow-boat was called from Boston to salvage the dory.

BILL FOR POLICE CLEAN-OUT LOST

The House today accepted without debate the report of the Committee on Cities, giving leave to withdraw on the petition of Representative John I. Fitzgerald, relative to appointments to the Boston police department.

At the hearing Representative Fitzgerald attacked the characters of members of the department, declaring criminals with known records had been appointed. Representative Robert Dinsmore of East Boston dissented from the committee report.

FALL SAYS HE GOT CASH THROUGH FRIENDSHIP

money because of the years of unbroken friendship between us," Fall added. "Besides, it was gratitude for the many things I, and no one else, had been able to do for him in Washington during the involvement of his Mexican properties by the war in that country. He never gave the money on account of any oil leases."

Fall also denied flatly he borrowed any large sums other than the $100,000 from Doheny. The impression was gained by some members of the committee from the oil man's testimony that there might have been a second $100,000, inasmuch as Doheny said, "the cost of buying the Harris ranch and improvements on his own ranch exceeded $100,000."

He declared Fall asserted the purpose of the loan was to purchase the adjoining ranch, not mentioning installations on the ex-secretary's own ranch, which were said to have cost about $80,000.

"I did not get any money from Harry Sinclair," Fall said. "I did not get any money from Edward B. McLean. The one thing I regret in all this unhappy situation is that I said I did get money from McLean, and I am ready to apologize for having said it."

Senator Caraway, Democrat, Arkansas, charged that "Fall suddenly came into possession of $100,000 after the leases to Doheny and Sinclair, although it was shown he was broke and unable to pay taxes before the leases were made."

To clarify these charges the committee summoned Fall to appear Monday. The decision to delay Fall's appearance until next week was reached after committee members had communicated with the ex-secretary's physician.

Tom Johnson, foreman of Fall's ranch at Three Rivers, N. M., is en route to Washington to appear as a witness before the Senate Committee.

Dr. John Wharton, physician to Fall, issued the following official statement at 11:30 o'clock:

"Secretary Fall has developed congestion in the chest and is suffering from severe cold contracted on his journey from New Orleans. He has a fever and I have ordered him to remain in bed for the time being."

UNDER PHYSICIAN'S CARE.

Fall was under the constant care of his physician today. He was stricken at the home of Colonel J. Y. Zevely. Sinclair's right hand man, but the physician expected to send him to the country.

"My patient will appear on Monday unless he has a turn for the worse and it is necessary to send him to a hospital," the doctor said.

"He wants to testify and I will let him if he is able."

Zevely, who accompanied Fall from New Orleans, was called to the stand today to testify concerning 2,500 shares of stock, worth $50,000, and $25,000 in Liberty bonds loaned him without a receipt or note by Sinclair. Zevely reiterated testimony of G. D. Wahlberg, Sinclair's former auditor, that he used the money in purchasing a home in Long Island.

"It is ridiculous to intimate that any of that money got into Mr. Fall's hands," he declared.

DOHENY DEFENDS HIM.

Fall leaned upon a cane, or upon an escort's arm when he walked. He moved slowly and with apparent difficulty.

"I want people to know that there was no corruption between Ed Doheny and me in these leases." He repeated this time and again. His voice was almost plaintive. "I don't want him crucified. He didn't do anything wrong. I'll tell the whole story on the stand Monday."

"And if it will remove all suspicion from Al Fall, I'll go back to the directors of my company and ask them to reconvene the lands to the government," Doheny stated.

Senator Walsh caused a sensation by suddenly inquiring of Doheny whether he had communicated with any member of the committe regarding the testimony he was to give. Doheny replied that he had not.

"Didn't Senator Smoot hand you a note as he came into the committee room?" thundered Walsh, flinging across the table at the witness.

"Yes, he did," Doheny replied mildly.

"Well, let us have it," demanded Walsh.

Doheny reached into the outside pocket of his coat and after a moment's fumbling produced a handful of papers, torn into tiny bits, which he threw upon the table in front of Walsh, exclaiming: "There it is, if you can translate it."

The loan to Fall was made on a note, Doheny said, and the money in bills was brought from New York to Washington by Doheny's son in a small black satchel. The cash was turned over to Fall, who signed the note, which was then returned to Doheny in New York. Doheny still retains the note and promised to produce it before the committee.

WILL TRACE ROYALTIES.

An agie of the Teapot Dome controversy developed today on the House side of the Capitol, when the Naval Committee asked Rear-Admiral Gregory, who was before it on other matters, to produce on Monday the leases for the naval oil reserves in Wyoming and California.

Members of the committee indicated privately that they desired to learn what had become of royalties paid in by the Doheny and Sinclair interests and whether there was any ground for stories that the Navy Department was using them for unauthorized projects.

Charge Sinclair's Money Used in Oklahoma Politics

Oklahoma City, Okla., Jan. 25.—The granting by A. B. Fall, former Secretary of the Interior, of a lease on Quapaw Indian zinc and lead mining land in Northwest Oklahoma would be offered as the subject for a United States Senatorial committee investigation under a resolution which Senator Courtland M. Peuquey has prepared for introduction in the Legislature today.

The resolution also would request the Senate committee investigating the Teapot Dome naval oil lease to develop the recent testimony of W. G. Wahlberg to the effect that Harry F. Sinclair, president of the Sinclair Oil Corporation, had turned over to his friend, Colonel William Zevely of Muskogee, Okla., $25,000 in Liberty bonds which were not accounted for to him (Wahlberg).

The inquiry would be asked to determine whether any of the money was brought into Oklahoma for the last Gubernatorial campaign, according to the resolution, which calls attention to the testimony given during the impeachment trial of former Governor J. C. Walton, indicating rumors throughout the State that such had been done.

242 CONVICTED AND ONLY TWO SENT TO JAIL

Cambridge Women Voters Decide to Force Action by the Courts

The fact that only two of the 242 persons convicted in the Cambridge courts in 1923 for liquor law violations served time in jail is before the Cambridge League of Women Voters as basis for action.

The court record was presented by Mrs. Herbert J. Gurney, who declared that the League of Women Voters should approach the Bar Association and the United States Senators in an effort to have more severe penalties imposed in the State and Federal courts.

The Cambridge Law Enforcement Committee, of which Edmund Whitman is chairman, prepared statistics dealing with liquor law violations in Cambridge in the past year.

There were 293 persons charged with violating the liquor laws. Of this number 242 were convicted. A large number of jail sentences were imposed in the lower courts, but on appeals, these jail terms were set aside and only two person actually served time.

The meeting of the Cambridge women was held in the home of Mrs. Wayland Minot, No. 26 Garden street.

TRAIN NEAR WRECK AT BRIDGE

Telegraph Poles Fall Across Tracks at Danversport; Traffic Tied Up

A wreck was narrowly averted and hundreds of commuters were delayed in reaching Boston today because of the collapse of three telegraph line poles at Danversport bridge on the Eastern division of the Boston & Maine.

The alertness of the engineer on the first train from Salem to Boston probably saved a smash. He noticed a strange obstruction ahead and brought his train to a stop within fifty yards of the first of the tangled poles and wires.

All trains from Lawrence were delayed more than two hours. Hundreds of passengers were shifted to trains on the branch. The obstruction was not cleared away until after 11 o'clock.

Last night's fall of snow, made heavy by the rain that followed, played havoc with suburban train schedules. The New Haven was crippled in places.

At Lexington a snow-plow of the Middlesex & Boston Street Railway company jumped the track in Bedford street and held up trolley service for more than an hour.

Schools in Lexington were closed down at noon, owing to the heavy walking. In Arlington the schools were closed all day.

An elevated car coming from the lines at Arlington Heights jumped the tracks and blocked traffic on Massachusetts avenue for a time.

DEATH BECAUSE PURNELL'S SON HAD SINNED

House of David Cult Teachings Has Excuse Ready if He Passes Away

Benton Harbor, Mich., Jan. 25.—Death is the result of sin, according to the teachings of "King" Benjamin Purnell, founder and missing head of the House of David Colony here, and should his son, Coy Purnell, die, it would affect the faith of members of the cult, according to those outside the colony who are familiar with its teachings.

The son now lies in Shiloh House, "capitol" of the colony, probably mortally ill.

But Coy Purnell sinned, his father's teachings say, for some years ago he married a woman who was not a member of the House of David. Thus in a colony where death is regarded as a disgrace and those who die are buried outside the colony in unmarked graves, unmourned and unremembered, the illness of the founder's son, if it proves fatal, may be taken merely as a substantiation of the teachings of the cult.

Benjamin Purnell has been sought by Michigan authorities for some time on criminal charges brought by former members of the cult in connection with alleged illegal practices in the colony.

A sharper watch has been kept by the authorities since the son became ill in the belief that the father might return, but former members of the cult say this is unlikely.

They point out that an estrangement existed between the father and son before the former disappeared. Only through his mother's intervention, it is said, has the son been permitted to live at the colony.

DRUM MAJOR IS MUSTERED OUT AFTER 60 YEARS

Walter Henry Thomas, Veteran of Three Wars, Retires From Somerville Post

Drum Major Walter Henry Thomas, who was with Sheridan in his famous ride from Winchester to Cedar Creek, was mustered out today after sixty years of honorable service in the regular army and the National Guard.

Walter H. Thomas

For the past twenty years the veteran of three wars has been armorer at Somerville armory. The boys will miss Walter at weekly drills and assemblies. He has their best wishes. Mr. Thomas lives in the Spring Hill section with his wife, whom he married three years ago. Mrs. Thomas is twenty-eight years younger and the sister of one of Walter's "buddies" in the Spanish War.

Drum Major Thomas set a pace for "rookies" by re-enlisting for three years at the age of seventy-three. That was a year ago, but failing health forced him to retire on half pay.

He is still drillmaster of George Dilboy Post, Veteran of Foreign Wars, and one of the best known bandsmen in the country.

Mr. Thomas was born in Portland. After his father was killed in action he enlisted as drummer boy in the Civil War at the age of twelve. He was attached to D company, 29th Maine Infantry, and was in many engagements.

WIDOW JILTS BENNETT; BIDS FOR SUITORS

Mrs. Ingalls Seeks 'True Love' at 69; Undismayed by Her Blighted Romance

Mrs. Elizabeth Ingalls, sixty-nine years old, Taunton widow, having jilted her twenty-six-year-old fiance, John Bennett, is ready for more proposals.

The "Will you be mine?" of any young American male will be given due consideration.

Her only specification is love—real, deep, true, love. Love—and a good job.

Her December-and-May romance shattered beyond hope, when John protested at her frivolous desire to bob her graying hairs, Mrs. Ingalls came to bat today with the following letter to the American:

"To the Editor of the Boston American:

"I wish to announce to my friends I have decided not to marry John C. Bennett of Fitchburg.

"But I am willing to marry a good American, who has a good position, one who will love me and devote his interest and companionship to make true happiness, and appreciate a true wife and good home and everything to make life happy.

"MRS. ELIABETH INGALLS.

"No. 335 Orms street, Providence, R. I."

Johnny Bennett

John Bennett, the young school teacher-wrestler of Fitchburg, not to be outdone, has a blast of his own to hurl at "Betty."

"I have made out a bill against Betty for $600," declared the young man, "a considerable part of that amount being due for my services as chauffeur.

"I bought candy for her. I spent no small amount for flowers, and then took at all the movies the railroad took away from me, whenever I went to see her.

"What was probably the last difference we will ever have grew out of Betty's announcement that she was going to bob her hair but I am inclined to blame some of her relatives in Providence and Taunton for her sudden show of antagonism. In the beginning she was very dear to me, but along towards the end of our romance I thought her mind had been poisoned against me.

"The reason she wanted to have the hair bobbed was in order that we could go into vaudeville together. I couldn't see it, but Betty was sure we could get up an athletic act and clean up a fortune."

STANFORD UNIVERSITY makes college cheering a part of the curriculum. A good "cheer leader" will get credit, in his studies, for his cheering.

It's a wise decision. Enthusiasm is the greatest force among human beings; yells stir enthusiasm. The yell of the Fascisti helped their success, so did the yell of the scalping Indians.

The young ladies of Monticello University, where Eugene Field's daughter studied, were inspired and lifted up by their little cry:

"Too-hee, too-hoo, black and yello, vive-la, vive-la, Monticello."

Hat makers say, "The derby is dressy and conservative." You couldn't ask more of a hat.

The derby hat, unfortunately, makes men bald. It squeezes the scalp, keeps blood from rising and hair dies.

On the other hand, if you are thrown from an automobile or a horse, a well-made derby might save you from a fractured skull. And if a footpad from behind hits you on the head with his little blackjack the derby again may save you. You hardly know what to advise.

ASKS $120,000 FOR "JIM CROW" RULING

Washington, Jan. 25.—E. M. Cressy, a negro physician of Detroit, today asked the Interstate Commerce Commission for an award of $120,000 from the Pullman Company and a number of Southern railroads, on the ground that they had damaged him by confining him to "Jim Crow" coaches and by refusing him sufficient facilities in his travels during 1923.

GEORGIA WOMAN SENTENCED TO BE HUNG

Fifth in History of the State; Found Guilty of Killing Mother-in-Law

Atlanta, Jan. 25.—Mrs. Ida Hughes was found guilty by a jury of the murder of her aged mother-in-law, Mrs. M. C. Hughes, and became the fifth woman in the history of the State to be condemned to death by hanging.

Only two have been hanged in Georgia, however. Mrs. Polly Barclay, executed nearly 100 years ago for the murder of her husband, and Susan Eberhart some time later for conspiring with a man named Spann to kill his wife.

Mrs. Hughes was charged with shooting her mother-in-law as the elderly woman stooped over a trunk in Mrs. Ida Hughes' home last month searching for articles she claimed belonged to her.

The trial of Frank Hughes, indicted jointly with his wife, will begin immediately.

Ten Years Ago Carlshause Arrived From Germany in Five-Room Suite

New York, Jan. 25.—Baron Hermann Luderus Von Carlshause came to America ten years ago in a five-room cabin suite on the Kaiserin Augusta Victoria and had servants to awaken him when it was breakfast time.

Today he sailed for London on the Thuringia, clad in a dirty suit of dungarees, and hooked on the ship's crew roster as Hermann Carlshause, seaman, second-class, wage one paper mark a month.

When America entered the war he was sent to Fort Oglethorpe charged with espionage. His mother died while he was there.

After the war Carlshause erected a stone over the grave of his mother at Kensico, N. Y. The inscription on it reads:

"A mother, a queen, lies here, Baroness Martha Inegeberg Luderus Von Carlshause, well loved by her son, a rolling stone."

OBREGON PLANS TO EXILE FOREIGNERS

Mexico City, Jan. 25 (A.P.).—Lists of foreigners accused of meddling in Mexican politics, especially those suspected of secretly aiding the revolutionists, have been compiled and forwarded to President Obregon for action looking to their expulsion from the country.

Numerous Spanish subjects, mostly large landowners of Puebla, are unofficially reported included in the list.

Promises made by De La Huerta, revolutionary leader, that the revolutionary government, if successful, would protect large land holders and restore States which have been divided through agrarian legislation are said to have originated strong currents of sympathy among elements favoring the revolution.

Smart Set to Sell Flowers at Play Given by Junior League, Says Betty Alden

By BETTY ALDEN

"MIXED DOUBLES" is what Mrs. Marland C. Hobbs calls her little twins, who are every bit as fascinating as twins should be.

The little boy is John Newlin Hobbs—his blonde-haired mother was formerly Miss Edith Newlin of Philadelphia—while his sister is called Genevra. Next June they will be three years old, when there'll doubtless be a celebration in honor of the anniversary at the Hobbs home out Brookline way.

Mrs. Donald Cottrell

Mrs. Hobbs will be among the young matrons and maids selling flowers at the performances of "Mlle. Modiste" which the Junior League is putting on at the Copley Theatre next month.

Of those who will usher at "Mlle. Modiste" is Mrs. Donald Cottrell of Chestnut Hill, a few of the others including the Misses Eleanor Hunneman, Lucy Harding and Ethel Satterlee.

Sarah Bowditch,

ONE of society's most widely-travelled members is probably Mrs. George von L. Meyer, who is now at Tangiers. She will soon be joined there by Mrs. Randolph M. Appleton of Beacon Street and the North Shore.

It was several weeks ago that Mrs. Meyer closed "Rockmaple Farm," her place at Hamilton, and sailed away again for foreign shores.

One of Mrs. Meye's daughters, the former Julia Appleton Meyer, married Signor Giuseppi Brambilla, a member of the Italian diplomatic corps, and Mrs. Meyer spends much of her time abroad with them.

Mrs Stephen B. Davol

A DANCE is being held tonight at the Longwood Cricket Club by the Little House Auxiliary. A host of the youngermarrieds out Chestnut Hill and Brookline way will attend this affair, which is for the benefit of Little House Settlement in South Boston.

Among the patronesses are Mesdames A. Farwell Bemis, S. Parker Bremer, Stephen B. Davol, Benjamin F. Pitman, Robert W. Sayles and Edwin S. Webster.

POPULAR "Ros" Adie, who's to play the leading role in the coming Vincent Club show, now has a "shingle" bob.

The younger daughter of the Andrew Adies of Chestnut Hill always seems to strike a distinctive note in the sartorial line. The other evening at the senior supper dance she wore a cleverly designed gown of white crepe with iridescent beads trimming the frock lengthwise instead of circularly.

As for the Vincent show, the various performances of "Wake Up," as the play is called, will be given at the Opera House early in April.

MRS. MARLAND C. HOBBS

Mrs. Marland C. Hobbs of Brookline will help sell flowers at the Junior League's presentation of "Mlle. Modiste" which will hold the boards at the Copley Theatre next month.

MAN PERISHES IN $20,000 FIRE IN DOVER, N. H.

Builder Who Discovered Blaze in Block Hurled to Own Death by Explosion

Dover, N. H., Jan. 25.—Fred George, fifty-eight years old, a contractor-builder, who during his five years' residence in Dover had erected a score of dwelling houses, lost his life early today in a fire that destroyed the Walker Building at Locust and Washington streets.

It was George who, strangely enough telephoned to Fire Headquarters its first news of the fire, which appears to have originated in the chain store of the Cloverdale Company, directly below his apartment.

Leaving the telephone, the contractor threw up his front window and yelled "Fire! fire! help! help!"

Firemen saw him there as the first piece of apparatus turned a nearby corner, but as they reached the scene there was a terrific explosion and the front walls of the Cloverdale store were blown into the street.

George appears to have closed his window and endeavored to make his way to either the stairway or a fire escape, at the rear of the building where his body was found after the fire had been extinguished.

The building was ruined, first estimates of the loss being $10,000 on the realty and at least another $10,000 on contents. These estimates are believed to be conservative.

On the ground floor were the Cloverdale establishment, the tailor-shop of David Jackson and the Dover Co-operative Bank.

ALE GONE UNDER CHIEF'S NOSE IN PEABODY

Someone Bores Hole in Barrel Stored in Cell House; Entire Force Questioned

Peabody, Jan. 25.—Chief of Police Machiel H. Grady is looking for a leak.

Under the noses of his force and himself the contents of a barrel once full of choice ale has disappeared.

Chief Grady

The barrel is in the cellhouse where the chief left it, but there is a hole in the bottom now and everything but the oder is gone.

The ale was part of a $40,000 seizure made at the home of Nicholas Pappas last June. Two months ago forty cases of whiskey went the same way the ale has now gone. At that time Chief Grady locked the remaining cases in a cell and pocketed the key, but the barrel was too big and was left outside.

The entire police force was questioned today and Chief Grady announced that Peabody citizens are backing him in solving the mystery. All wet goods were valued at more than $4,000.

Pappas, the original owner, is awaiting action on his appeal on a bill of exceptions in the Massachusetts Supreme Court.

Trousers will not pinch the knee. Pockets will be spacious and sewed on at a lower extremity of the coat, which will be made in straight lines."

CHARGE 'BLACK TOM' EXPLOSION GERMAN PLOT

Lehigh Valley Railroad Finds Evidence to Back Claim in $9,000,000 Suit

Washington, Jan. 25.—Charges that the "Black Tom" explosion in New Jersey on July 30, 1916, was caused by agents of the German government, acting under express orders from Berlin, were made in a brief filed with the mixed claims commission today by the Lehigh Valley Railroad Company. The brief said the railroad company had within the last sixty days obtained access to evidence which would supports its charges.

The Lehigh Valley had before the commission a claim for damage to some of its barges by a German submarine. It sought in the brief filed today to amend the claim so as to recover approximately $3,000,000 for losses as a result of the Black Tom explosion. The company had been compelled to pay several million dollars in claims for damages following that disaster.

Setting forth that around its docks at National Docks, N. J., there was much ammunition destined for the allied governments, the brief asserted that since the blast the Lehigh Valley had endeavored to obtain legal proof that German agents set off the explosion, but had been unsuccessful until within the past two months. It asked the commission for permission to submit affidavits and other evidence to support its charges.

MILLER 'FRAUD' BABY CASE IS FILED

Court Writes Final Chapter in One of State's Queerest Mother Love Tangles

Springfield, Jan. 25.—The case of Mrs. Peach Winstone Miller and the six-months-old "love-baby" she substituted for the one nature had denied her, is ended so far as the law is concerned.

The baby is dead.

Today in Domestic Relations Court, Judge Wallace R. Heady ordered the case against Mrs. Miller "filed."

When the case was called, Judge Heady announced that Mrs. Miller's physician had telephoned him that she was seriously ill and that it would be several weeks before she would be able to appear.

Mrs. Peach W. Miller

The words "case ordered filed" marked the end of one of the most unusual cases of deception, born of mother-love, ever known in Massachusetts.

When denied a child of her own, after all preparations had been made for the little one, Mrs. Miller substituted the new-born infant son of Miss Mary Moriarty. The child was born at a hospital in Springfield.

Mrs. Miller substituted the child so cleverly that her husband, Leland Miller, and his parents never knew of the deception. It was discovered only when State authorities checked up on the registration.

Mrs. Miller had registered the child as "Sidney Winstone Miller."

When State officials discovered the deception, a warrant was sworn out for Mrs. Miller, charging her with false registration of vital statistics. The State authorities took the infant from the Miller home, despite her protests to the almshouse, where it was stricken with a glandular affection and died.

CONFESSED HIS LOVE FOR "OTHER WOMAN"

Mrs. Gladys S. Foster's suit for divorce against John H. Foster, auto salesman, was heard today by Judge White in Salem. Mrs. Foster lives with her mother in Nahant. The couple were married in Malden in 1918. She said Foster left her in November.

Mrs. Foster said her husband was infatuated with a Mrs. Alice Whitney of Boston and boasted that he could not quit going around with Mrs. Whitney because he thought more of her than he did his wife.

She also said her husband had the audacity to bring Mrs. Whitney into his home and entertain her in the den "with shades drawn and door closed" The court took the case under advisement.

COAKLEY TRIAL IS PUT OFF A MONTH

Following a conference today by Judge Elias Bishop of Superior Court, District Attorney Thomas C. O'Brien and Daniel H. Coakley, disbarred Boston lawyer, Judge Bishop set February 25 as the trial day in the cases against Coakley and William J. Corcoran for perjury.

Judge Bishop announced, however, that if counsel for the defense and the district attorney could agree on an earlier date he would advance the day for the trial to begin.

Indianapolis, Jan. 25. (A.P.)—Full powers to investigate the possibilities of radio as a means of saving lives in mine disasters was vested in the international officers of the United Mine Workers of America, by a resolution adopted at the international convention here today. Sponsors of the resolution explained that in experiments at Scranton, Pa., it was found possible to operate a radio receiving set successfully 1,000 feet underground.

MOTHER OF NINE WOULD DROP HUSBAND

Father of Lynn Triplets, in the 120-Pound Class, Is Called Cruel by 176-Pound Wife

Mrs. Esther Simpson, mother of the Lynn triplets, was in the divorce court at Salem today, asking to be freed from Harold Simpson, father of her nine children.

Mrs. Simpson charged cruelty. She said her husband struck her in the face with his fist. She is connected with Clark's Hotel in Boston.

Mrs. Simpson said her husband was such a bully that "al the children ran into corners when he came home."

"When were you married?" asked Judge White.

"In 1914," said Simpson.

"How many children have you?"

"They came so fast I'll have to stop to figure," replied the husband.

"Do you think you'll need an auditor to help you?" asked Judge White and spectators giggled.

"y wife is too husky for me to rough with," testified Simpson. "She weighs 176 and I only weigh 129. She chased me out of the house with a razor one night. A pie she made for an outing at Lynn beach was so tough that the knife slipped when I tried to serve it and cut my boy's leg."

"Was it filled with rocks?" asked counsel.

"Better ask my wife; she made it," said Simpson.

The case was taken under advisement.

ANDERSON GAVE $25,000 TO MR. MANN, HE SAYS

Anti-Saloon Head Admits That "King's" Gift to Him Was Charged to League

New York, Jan. 25.—Assistant District Attorney Pecora today continued his cross-examination of William Ham Anderson, State Superintendent of the Anti-Saloon League, in an effort to learn more about the mysterious John T. King named by the league head yesterday as the man who gave him $25,000 in cash because he liked him.

Anderson, on trial on charge of forgery, declared that he had received the last of the gift while taking dinner with King at the Waldorf-Astoria late in 1918 or early in 1914.

King, continued the league head, introduced him to a publicity man named Henry Mann who had offices in downtown New York. Anderson said he met Mann 39 or 35 times.

Anderson declared that he had been trying unsuccessfully to locate Mann ever since the district attorney's office began investigating the Anti-Saloon League's affairs. He said Mann had been given all of the $24,700 which came from King and was later charged to the League.

Twelve or thirteen letters had been written to him by Mann, Mr. Anderson testified, but he did not know where they were. He said that the reason he had not told Mr. Pecora about Mann when he questioned him a year ago, was that he thought Mr.

Watch This Tomorrow

Pecora "didn't have to know about him."

The league head said it was true that in March, 1918, when he presented the claim of $24,700 to the league directors he submitted an affidavit setting forth that he had acquired the money through the mortgaging of property and from three life insurance policies.

He added that he submitted the contract he had made with O. Bertram Phillips, fund collector, at the same meeting.

TICKLES WIFE WITH KNIFE; SHE GETS DIVORCE

Spouse Says Ex-Yale Man Also Wiped Hands on Her Face After Cleaning Fish

Bridgeport, Ct., Jan. 25.—A romance starting at Yale eighteen years ago and culminating in a runaway wedding in New York today ended here when Dorothy Tree bridge Hager, of New Haven was granted a divorce from Rose Hager, Jr., once of Hagerstown, Md., and now of Oklahoma and Florida on grounds of intolerable cruelty.

Mrs. Hager, member of a wealthy New Haven family, told how her husband, after fishing from his private yacht and cleaning fish, wiped his hands on her face and tickled her ribs with a dirty knife. She also told of intercepting endearing letters written by Mrs. Oliver Kedge of Chicago.

Hager was married while a sophomore at Yale in April, 1916.

BIG SURTAXES HURT BUSINESS, SAYS MELLON

Treasury Head Again Raps Couzens' Plan; Dodges Challenge on His Own Wealth

Washington, Jan. 25.—A fresh chapter was written today in the now famous Mellon-Couzens tax correspondence concerning the merits of the tax reduction plan which the secretary has proposed.

In another letter to Senator Couzens, Republican, Michigan, his fourth in as many weeks, Mr. Mellon described Senator Couzens' reasoning processes as "unique" and reiterated his contention that American business is being muleted and retarded by the present surtaxes on big incomes.

Mellon completely ignored, however Couzens' recent challenge to reveal the extent of his personal wealth and disclose how much he personally would benefit by the reduction of these surtaxes he had proposed.

FRENCH CHAMBER STARTS TAX DEBATE

Paris, Jan. 25 (A.P.)—The Chamber of Deputies today began what will probably be a week's continuous debate on Premier Poincare's economy and increased taxation program to raise 8,350,000,000 francs with which to balance the budget. Deputy Bokanowski, general secretary of the Chamber's budget committee, presented the committee's recommendation of adoption, insisted that the country must meet its expenses without borrowing, and urged the deputies to vote the increased taxes.

PREDICT WATER FAMINE IN BOSTON

Chamber of Commerce Urges Legislature to Act This Session Extending Supply

The Chamber of Commerce declares Boston is approaching a water shortage and asks for action looking toward an extension of the Metropolitan water supply by the present session of the Legislature.

In a letter of Chairman Christian Nelson of the Joint legislative committee on water supply, President Howard Coonley of the Chamber states that the Chamber is in hearty support of the intention of the recess committee on water supply to employ experts to study the problem.

He says some definite step toward an extension of the water supply of the Metropolitan district should be taken by the present Legislature. The matter has been before the Legislature for five years and, President Coonley says, the situation has arrived at the point where definite action is desirable.

Giant Lamp So Hot It Melts the Glass Incasing It

East Orange, N. J., Jan. 25 (I.N.S.).—An electric light bulb so big and powerful that it melts the glass in which it is encased is being exhibited here today at the Sprague plant of the General Electric Company.

Beside it is a bulb so tiny it can be hidden between the thumb and forefinger. This light was used recently when a Philadelphia physician withdrew a tack from a baby's lung.

The large lamp is 22 inches high, and the top, which is ball-shaped, has a diameter of 15 inches. It requires 30,000 watts to furnish its 150,000 candle power. When the current has been turned on for a few minutes 2,500 degrees centigrade is generated.

A special fan is used to cool the atmosphere around the bulb. The rays of this light closely resemble those of the sun, because of the absence of red rays, which, its inventor believes, will make it desirable for use in motion picture work.

LOSS OF HULL BOY REVEALS ROMANCE

Young Arthur G. Irwin, Believed Drowned With Chum, Was to Take Bride in June

A touch of pathos accentuated the mysterious disappearance of Arthur G. Irwin of Hull, twenty-five-year-old World War hero, when it was reported he was engaged to be married in June to Miss Evelyn Donovan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Donovan of No. 42 Oakview terrace, Jamaica Plain. Their engagement was announced a few months ago.

Miss Evelyn Donovan.

Irwin, with a chum, Walter Peine, twenty-four, of Bayside, put out from Hull Sunday morning in a twenty-foot dory. It is feared they were drowned in Monday's stiff gale. Nothing has been heard from the two since.

Miss Donovan's mother today denied her daughter was engaged to young Irwin. "They were merely good friends," she declared. "We summered at Pemberton, near Irwin's home, and the two became fast friends." Miss Donovan is at present ill with pneumonia.

The fact the dory taken by the men had not been used for eight months led Hull police and coast guardsmen to believe the craft could not have weathered the high seas and winds which swept the coast this week.

MEDAL FOR SOLDIER WHO RESCUED BOY

Sergeant Thomas Landingham, of the 13th infantry, will be awarded the U. S. treasury medal for saving a boy from drowning at Fort Andrews dock, Major-General A. W. Brewster, commanding the First Corps Area, has, with general staff officers, commended the action of the sergeant. When six-year-old Leo Perry was walking the gangplank leading to the army boat General Batchelder to be taken with other children to school at Hull, he slipped and fell into the water. Landingham, although burdened with a heavy overcoat, jumped in and saved the child.

RECOGNITION OF SOVIET 'AS SOON AS POSSIBLE'

Ratification of Labor Cabinet's First Step Will Have to Be Made by Parliament

Washington, Jan. 25 (I.N.S.).—Recognition of the Russian Soviet government by Great Britain, will not affect the policy of the United States towards Russia, it was announced at the State Department today.

The principal objection of this government in establishment of diplomatic relations with Russia is the alleged efforts of the Moscow authorities to carry on propaganda against American institutions.

London, Jan. 25 (I.N.S.).—Great Britain's Labor Cabinet has decided to recognize the Russian government "as soon as possible," it was officially announced by the Foreign Office this afternoon.

Decision to extend recognition to Moscow was the first official act of Premier J. Ramsay MacDonald's new government.

Great Britain probably will be the first great power to recognize the Soviets. Italy will be the next.

It is understood the government has tentatively selected James O'Grady, Laborite member of Commons, as the British Ambassador to Moscow when recognition is formally extended.

The British Labor party was officially on record in favor of Russian recognition even before it came into power.

It was reported that M. Rakovsky, head of the Russian Trade Mission in London, had conferred with Premier MacDonald on Thursday, but subsequently the mission denied the report.

If recognition takes the form of an Anglo-Russian treaty it will have to be ratified by Parliament. In this event there may be a coalition of some Liberals and Tories against recognition. This would put the new Labor government in a precarious position.

Parliament will not be in session until February 12.

It is possible the Cabinet may send a commission to Russia to investigate conditions before there is actual recognition.

Moderates within the Labor Party urged that two of the conditions should be recognition by the Soviets of the Russian debt and payment of indemnity by Moscow.

O'Grady was said to insist that the government abandon plans for a $50,000,000 naval base at Singapore before he would consent to act as ambassador. It is considered doubtful, however, that the Cabinet will cancel plans for the Singapore works.

ARMOUR'S OATS

The Only Quick-Cooking Whole Oat Flakes

Whole Oat Flakes are preferred by most folks. They keep their shape when cooked, make a "meaty" substantial dish, and retain all the good, natural flavor of the oats themselves.

Armour's Oats are not only whole oat flakes; it takes but a few minutes to cook them. This quick cooking is made possible by partial pre-cooking and by rolling the oats to an unusual delicate thinness. The quality and flavor are not sacrificed by chopping or cutting up the flakes.

In Armour's Oats the whole oats are preserved in all their goodness—yet even before the rest of the breakfast is ready, they are cooked perfectly.

Stop it Tonight with Hot Lemonade

WHEN you're sneezing—when you're chilly—that's the time to stop a cold.

Take a good old-fashioned hot lemonade—as hot as you can stand it. Then a hot bath and go to bed, with plenty of warm covers. You will note the difference in the morning.

The effectiveness of hot lemonade in the prevention or treatment of a cold is due to more than its heat.

Thousands used this effective and easy method during the influenza epidemics. You, too, will profit by doing likewise if a cold impends.

Mothers now keep lemons always in the house for such emergencies. Children should have this healthful drink. If their feet are wet after playing outdoors give them a hot lemonade. It's good insurance against colds and more serious results.

It takes but a few minutes to prepare it, and the time to act is when you first suspect the cold. Do this tonight if you feel chilly.

California lemons make the best lemonade. They are practically seedless, tart and heavy with acid juice. Buy them at any first-class store. Try the "hot lemonade way" tonight.

Hot Lemonade

Slice a whole California lemon crosswise into the tumbler (leaving rind on). Place slices in bowl and pour boiling water over them. Allow to stand 3 minutes. Sweeten to taste. Stir in one tablespoonful of whisky if you only prefer to punish it lightly.

HART REVEALS HOW MONEY WAS MADE

Dropped From $70,000 Gain to Less Than Nothing After Leaving Keith's

New York, Jan. 25—Gambling losses and domestic troubles were brought into the cross-examination of Max Hart in the Federal District Court, where his $5,350,000 suit against the B. F. Keith Vaudeville Exchange and associates on the charge that they constitute a monopoly in violation of the Sherman Anti-Trust law is being tried.

After questioning Hart at length about his career, Maurice Goodman, Keith attorney, attempted to bring out episodes in his private life. Hart was quizzed concerning certain stock transactions, his gambling losses, and his unhappy relationship with his wife, Mrs. Madge Hart.

Hart became evasive and shifted uneasily. Martin Littleton, his counsel, arose, his eyes blazing.

LITTLETON IN ACTION.

"You are dragging in testimony that has nothing to do with the case," he shouted to Goodman. I just want to warn you that I'll get your Mr. Albee on the stand, and we'll see what kind of private life he has had. And I'll get you on the stand, too, Mr. Goodman, and show how you charged clients $50 for copywriting contracts . . .

Here Littleton was cut short by Goodman.

"I'm surprised, Mr. Littleton," the Keith counsel hastily stated, "that a man of your legal standing should stoop to statements like that."

"Surprised, are you?" was Littleton's reply. "Well, before I'm through, you'll be more than surprised. You'll be shocked!"

TELLS OF LOSSES.

Hart's testimony brought out the fact that during 1920—his last year in the Keith exchange, he made a profit of more than $70,000. After his expulsion by E. F. Albee, Hart claims to have lost $3,000 in his business during 1921, to have made but $4,000 in 1922, and to have lost more than $3,000 in 1923. It is on this basis that Hart is attempting to collect on his suit for damages.

Under interrogating by Goodman it was discovered that Hart had suffered other reverses during 1921. He had lost from $6,000 to $8,000 on stock transactions, and the gentle art of playing bridge had dented Hart's bank account some four or five thousand dollars. There were also losses sustained in backing unsuccessful productions.

NEW MUSCLE SHOALS OFFER GOES TO WEEKS

Washington, Jan. 25.—A proposal for manufacture of fertilizers at Muscle Shoals, Ala., under processes designed to reduce its cost to farmers to "less than half" the present prices, has been worked out by three experts in fixed nitrogen production in association with the three Southern power companies which have offered $100,000,000 for a fifty-year lease on the plant. The proposal, prepared for submission to Secretary Weeks today, contemplates formation of a $5,000,000 corporation to manufacture up to 50,000 tons of fertilizer annually. Secretary Weeks is expected to forward the proposal to the House, along with the offers of Henry Ford and others.

It is charged by Mr. Brigham that Smith, by unjustly contriving and intending to deprive him of the comfort and society of Mrs. Brigham, and to alienate her affection from him, did so destroy her affection for him that he utterly lost her society, comfort and support in his domestic affairs, which he otherwise would have had.

Smith has filed answer in which he denies each and every allegation made by Brigham.

LEAPS TO DEATH IN SYRACUSE HOTEL FIRE

Forty Guests Saved by Jumping Into Nets or Were Carried Out by Firemen

Syracuse, Jan. 25.—Fire, which swept through the Manhattan Hotel, in the centre of the city today, caused at least one death, injuries to a score of persons and property damage, estimated by fire department officials at $100,000. Two persons are missing. Lou Chatterton, sixty-seven, a roomer, leaped to death from the third floor to the pavement. August Lang, dropped from a third-story window, but his coat caught on a nail in the sill and he hung helpless until a ladder was raised to aid him.

Most of the forty guests, cut off from escape by stairways, leaped to life nets or were carried down ladders by firemen. The flames spread so rapidly that few had time to save their baggage, and many had no time to dress. They were cared for in two hotels near by.

THOUSANDS IN VIGIL AT BIER OF LENINE

Mourners Still Pouring Into Moscow for Last Look at the Departed Leader

Moscow, Jan. 25 (I.N.S.).—Unofficial funeral services were conducted today for Nicolai Lenine, while thousands of mourning Russians continued to pour into this city for their final look upon the face of the dead leader.

Huge bonfires blazed during the night in Red square, in front of the Kremlin, where Lenine will be buried Sunday. The weather is below zero, the ground frozen so hard it was necessary to blast it loose to prepare for the grave.

More than half a million men and women have passed before the crimson bier in Trade Union Hall, where the body of the Communist chief reposes in a red coffin.

In spite of the extreme weather whole villages are walking to Moscow for the final services. Labor unions from out of town are coming en masse to pay their homage at the bier.

Long lines of men and women huddled in the streets flanking Trade Union Hall patiently awaiting their opportunity to enter. At times they broke into revolutionary songs, but for the most part were silent, speaking in whispers.

Within the death chamber a hidden military band played softly. The bandsmen varied the funeral dirges with the "Internationale," the anthem of the Communists.

Some of the women who passed Lenine's coffin became hysterical and had to be led from the chamber. Lenine's features were tranquil and lifelike. The upper lip was slightly raised as though in a smile. The great, bulging forehead, completely bald, was without wrinkles. The beard showed only a slight trace of gray.

Some of the Communists are opposed to burial, desiring that the body "be saved for posterity."

Triumvirate Will Rule Russia in Lenine's Place

London, Jan. 25.—Soviet Russia will be ruled in the immediate future by a Triumvirate composed of Leo Kamanev, third vice-president of the Council of People's Commissars; M. Rykov, second vice-president, and M. Taurupa, commissar for inspection of workers and peasants councils, according to a Moscow dispatch today, quoting George Tchitcherin, people's commissar for foreign affairs.

They will be known as "Joint Presidents," succeeding Nicolai Lenine, who was President of the Council of Peoples' Commissaries.

Supreme Court Will Rule on How Much O'Keefe and Magrane Must Settle For

A petition of Bank Commissioner Joseph C. Allen to relieve Patrick F. O'Keefe of Boston and Patrick H. McGrane of Lynn of further liability in the affairs of the defunct Commonwealth Trust Company on payment of $150,000 by Magrane and $30,000 by O'Keefe was passed on to the full bench of the Supreme Court for decision by Justice Braley following a hearing today.

Both men were formerly directors of the bank.

They offered the above sums as the best settlement they could make and wished to be relieved of further liability.

The bank commissioner, acting for the bank, favored the plan. Attorney Sherman L. Whipple, acting for Simon Vorenberg, who was a director, opposed the plan on the ground that no settlement should be made until the total liability of the directors had been adjudicated.

He said: "To allow Magrane and O'Keefe to be eliminated as defendants might jeopardize the rights of remaining directors and work an inequality in the matter of contribution which each defendant might finally be required to make."

Counsel for other directors favored Whipple's contention.

"It is a perplexing matter to decide," said Justice Braley, and passed it on for the full court to act upon.

RAID 2 HARVARD STUDENTS AS BOOTLEGS

Third Harvard Man Is Fined $200, but Jail Sentence Is Suspended

The war on Harvard student bootleggers by the Cambridge police continued today. Two students were arrested and one, previously arrested, was convicted in court.

Sergeant Presbo, Patrolmen Stokes, McCarthy, Trent and Normide arrested Roland T. Kinney and Fred Herrington of No. 38 Walter Hastings Hall on the charge of bootlegging. The police raided the quarters of the two students and allege that they secured nine quarts of whisky. The youths will be arraigned in court on Saturday.

John J. Conley of Westmorely Hall was arraigned in the East Cambridge Court and was sentenced to pay a fine of $200 and serve four months in jail. The latter part of the sentence was suspended. Conley, following the hearing, was arrested by Inspector Haggerty of the Boston police on a warrant alleging forgery.

After paying the fine he was rearrested on a charge of involving a woman with him, it is alleged, he has been living with at Dudley Pond.

URGES DEFENCES AT CANAL STRENGTHENED

Colon, Panama Canal Zone, Jan. 25 (I.N.S.).—Admiral Coonts, U. S. A., and General Hines, U. S. A., umpires in the United States manoeuvres in Canal Zone waters, today recommended to the army and navy departments at Washington that the defences of the Panama Canal be improved and strengthened immediately.

Recommendations followed a four-day council in which forty American army and navy officers took part.

Suggestions were made that the land garisons be increased, the air forces be reinforced, new roads constructed and the long range naval guns be elevated so as to increase their firing range.

The officers urged that the naval patrol force in Canal Zone waters which co-operates with the land forces be strengthened at once.

It is estimated that the improvements would cost about $10,000,000 annually.

"All a sheik has to do," explained Mrs. Forbes, "is to matter to himself, any time the impulse prompts him 'I divorce thee' and a quartet of wives are turned out in the cold. PAL REED EAGER TO LAND BOUT WITH GREB FOR THE TITLE

NATICK FAVORITE IRON MAN OF RING GAME

By JACK CONWAY

Pal Reed, heavy-slitting Natick middleweight will get a bout with Harry Greb for the world's middleweight championship if he wins over Johnny Wilson in their big round bout at the Armory A. A. show at Mechanics Building on Tuesday night.

Reed and [illegible] have met [illegible] times. Their [illegible] staged in Boston several years ago. During [illegible] suffered a severe gash under eye of [illegible] fighting. Reed went in and gave [illegible] a bad trouble. Later when Tait and Harry [illegible] the puncher decision was a draw.

It will take a fighter of the Reed type, who is continuously boring in, to defeat Greb. A clever boxer or a slow fighter hasn't got a chance of wresting the middleweight crown from the champion.

Reed has been fighting in the best form of his career during the past few months. When he battled Wilson at the Arena in November, many of the spectators were of the opinion the Natick warrior won. Reed had Wilson in distress in the second round, while he was carrying the fighting to the former champion during the closing rounds of the encounter.

There is not a boxer in the world who has any more courage than Reed. This was evident when he was knocked down one times in the first round of his bout with Pat McCarthy and then came back and won the decision.

At New Bedford the other night, Reed had Moody in distress at the bell in the tenth round. If there were finish fights today, Reed would be unbeatable.

The Armory Club reports a heavy demand for reservations for the Wilson Reed show.

ARENA
HOCKEY TONIGHT, 8:15
B. A. A. vs.
New Haven Bears
Skating After the Game

TONIGHT'S GAME SHOULD BE A CORKER

Hockey has taken toll of some star players in the Eastern group but fortunately for the local game [illegible] he teams are fortified with reserves to fill the [illegible] gaps.

[illegible] the loss of Mack Campbell to the B. A. A. team and Capt. Norman Shay to the New Haven Bears cannot be discounted. Both [illegible] cogs in their respective machines. To survive the Eastern competition requires furious hockey and each team is so strong that Shay or Campbell can be [illegible].

So when the B. A. A. and New Haven teams meet at the Arena tonight hockey fans expect to see a brilliant exhibition between the unicorns and Bears.

The rivalry is intense. The Bears appreciate that it was the Unicorns who kept them out of the national championship last year. The teams have split even. Strangely enough each lost its home game.

Tonight Mack Campbell will be at the City Hospital keenly interested in the Arena battle. Big "Alex" is recovering from a jagged eight inch wound in the back of his leg which required 22 stitches. He will be confined to the hospital at least 10 days.

Overtime battles appear to be all the rage in Boston hockey and it is likely that these two rivals, playing tight hockey, will go into extra periods tonight.

All is set for the red letter event in Boston hockey history tomorrow night when the United States League double header is played. The B. Norman Shay A. A. plays the Boston Hockey Club in one half and the Maples tackle New Haven in the other cash.

A limited number of admission seats will be placed on sale today at 7:30. Regardless of weather conditions these tickets will not be placed on sale early.

TODAY

By Arthur Brisbane

(Copyright, 1924, by Star Company)

OVERCOAT MAKERS can sympathize with potato farmers. Occasionally farmers plant too many potatoes; the crop is big, the price is low, it hardly pays to dig. The next year farmers plant too few potatoes, and the price goes out of reach.

That happened this year to makers of overcoats; they made too many kinds. Good manufacturers are overstocked with coats they don't want to carry through another year, and they are cutting to the bone. This may interest you, if you need an overcoat.

NEXT YEAR, the manufacturers, remembering their burnt fingers of 1923-1924, will probably manufacture too few overcoats. Then prices will be above the normal.

Never spend money uselessly, but if you will need an overcoat this year or next, you will probably save money buying it now.

(Boston American, January 31, 1924)

RECORDS IN DANGER AT K. OF C. MEET

Records are in danger when the track at Mechanics Building shakes under the thud of the athletes' spiked shoes in the grand opening of the indoor track season in the Knights of Columbus games Saturday night.

Olympic prospects will race against time for the first time in the indoor season here.

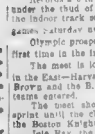
The meet is long and varied. The big colleges in the East—Harvard, Georgetown, Holy Cross, Tufts, Brown and the B. A. A. and the Newark A. C. have teams entered.

The meet should be a tartiler from the first sprint until the climax between the New York and the Boston Knights of Columbus.

Joie Ray, the Iffer, will be the Big Stick, the King Pin in the evening performance. When the diminutive miler tears around the last lap in the Casey mill it will be a night for the gods, and it will bring the house to its feet.

Leroy Brown

Ray is out to clean up in the mile this year. Already he has won one leg on the trophy, but a defeat at the hands of Lloyd Hahn, B. A. A. entry, has dented his armor. Hahn will race him again. So will Pat Mahoney, K. C. miler. Ray is out to win, and a splendid race hangs in the balance.



Charley Bentham

The sprints are chock full of talent. Leon Murchison, national and national champion, is the star. But Brown must be on his toes to keep the bar ahead of Clarence Hahive, sensational Boston College entry.

Hahive has jumped 6 feet 2¼ inches, and Coach Jack Ryder says he's capable of greater stuff. Brown has cleared the bar at 6 feet 4½ inches. His experience and his highly efficient style should garner honors over his rival.

Pat Mahoney

As fine a class of shotputters as any one could hope to see will compete, heaving the iron acorn. Ralph G. Hills Princeton intercollegiate champion who has cleared the 49 foot mark in the Stadium last year, will be on hand. Pitted against him will be Charley Eastman, the Harvard star, Orville Wanzer, national champion, and John C. Lawlor of the B. A. A. are entered.

The meet should be a hummer from the first crack of the pistol.

Harvard has entered a well-balanced team. Those in the 880-yard relay against Georgetown are Boepple Watters, Chapin, Kerr and Cutcheons.

In the 300-yard those selected to match strides with the Boston Chapter of the Knights of Columbus are Jim Merrill, Clarence Brookes, Len Robb, and Bob Alton. They will race against Jess Driscoll, Joe Sullivan, Joe Tierney and Walter Mulvahill.

Buck Evans, former football star, will make the going rough for the favorites in the shot-put.

OPEN SWIMMING SEASON NEXT MONDAY

The swimming season of the Boys' Club of Boston starts Monday night, with a big swimming exhibition by Capt. Jack Wallace of the Red Cross, and Robert Muir, who also has quite a reputation in the aquatic line.

Capt. Wallace

They will give an exhibition of plain and fancy swimming stunts, life saving and diving. Many of the boys are interested in this and a large gathering is expected.

Swimming meets have been arranged between the club and Boston swimming teams. The boys representing the swimming team this year are well qualified in their particular swimming abilities among them are many of the boys of last year's team.

Practice is held regularly and the team is progressing in fine shape.

CHARLEY MANTY WINS OVER BUDD DEMPSEY

The first preliminary was won by Joe Costa of New Bedford from Bobby Richlaw of Newton. In the second preliminary Tony Mandell of Worcester whipped George Mandeau of New Bedford.

Huntington Is To Tackle Newton

By FRED C. LANE

Huntington School's track team will not be a set horse for the second time this season in discovering the relative strength of the two central rivals for the State indoor title when it meets Newton High on the Y. M. C. A. cinder floor this afternoon.

The Huntington athletes ran [illegible] field High last week and caused the lads from the last mentioned school to think that to win Newton has to fast years been the one obstacle in the path of Medford High, and this meet with Huntington today will give track fans in this section an idea of what to expect when Newton and Medford send their athletes into action for the coveted State title in March.

Newton, like Medford, has lost a versatile athlete through graduation Wesley Dicks, leading 1,000 yard runner last season will no longer wear the Orange and Black color which in a way will cripple the school's chances of topping the Back Bay team today.

Huntington is favored to win. Even though they lost the biggest part of their winning combination of last season they still have a reserve strength that started the schoolboy world in the Medford-Huntington meet.

Favored to win as they may be, Huntington is in for a severe battle before the final outcome of this meet is settled. Newton is reputed as having one of the best track teams in years. The remarkable performance of the team last year was a boom for the banked corner sport in the Garden City.

Since hockey and track are the big Winter sports and hockey has been treated unkindly by the weather man, the majority of the members of the latter, anxious for action have centred their attention to the track game.

Howard Burns, former Exeter athlete and now at Huntington, recent winner of the dash over Harrington at Cambridge, and the best in New England, will meet a tartar in Howard Weeks of Newton.

This event has been second to Harrington Moore in the many occasions in which they have toed the starting line together. In fact Moore's margin of victory over Weeks has been exceedingly small.

Burns, the most logical opponent that Weeks will encounter today, is credited with a victory over Moore. There was good grounds to dispute the victory on the part of Moore, yet that athlete took his medicine without a whimper.

Gordon Clarke, formerly of Hyde Park, is now attending Huntington makes a valuable man for the Red and Black team. When at Hyde Park he directed his attention to the 600-yard run but since joining the Back Bay school has developed into a fast dash man.

Of Huntington should have little trouble breaking first worsted in the 600 and 1000. Saunders and Smith are the best Newton has to offer in the 600 while Walter Kyall is the outstanding star of the Newton team enter the 1000 yard route.

Huntington and Newton in fact are both weak in the high jump and shot put. The winner of these two events are doubtful.

NOTICE FOR OLYMPIC TEAMS

Lack of land and snow at Chamonix, France, where the American Olympic racers and hockey players are to compete, has caused our athletes to take to the road for conditioning. A Spring thaw has set in that at this writing bids fair to last a week.

PADDY OWENS DOES TURN WITH JOE LYNCH

Paddy Owens, Cambridge boxer, stepped to El Dorado, Arkansas, to do a little turn with Champion Joe Lynch. It would be well for the Cantab to remember that Mike McTigue was mighty fortunate in his Georgia bout with Young Stribling.

ANCIENT IRISH OLYMPIAD TO BE RESUMED IN AUGUST

FULL LIST OF GAMES PLANNED

By LUTHER A. HUSTON.

London, Jan. 21 (I.N.S.)—Back in the days when the world was young the Irish used to stop fighting once a year and assemble on the plains of Meath to indulge in such athletic pastimes as sometimes ended in war. The practice persisted for a span of centuries until the Norsemen wandered across the Irish Sea and disarranged the schedule. Now a full-blown movement for revival of the ancient games is under way, with every prospect that the first tournament in more than 1 000 years will be held in August.

The games, which are virtually the Irish Olympiad, were known in ancient times by the qualnt Gaelic name of Aonach Tailteann. The name has been revived for the games that are to be held this year.

GAMES HELD FOR EIGHTEEN CENTURIES

To get back to the origin of Aonach Tailteann necessitates delving into the prehistoric past. According to J. J. Walsh, Postmaster-General of the Irish Free State and director of the Aonachs Tailteann, there are two versions of its beginnings.

One is that it was established by Lugh-of-the-Long-Arm in the year 1,313 of the Age of the World. The other version fixes its inauguration in the year 632 B. C. It is historic fact, Walsh asserts, that the games were held uninterruptedly for seven centuries before Christ and eleven centuries afterward.

Originally the games were held in honor of Queen Tailte, and the scene always was around her burial mound at Teltown, County Meath. It is on this ancient plain that the 1924 revival of the games will be staged.

The original games always saw a gathering of the chiefs of the Irish clans, and the sports included chariot races, horse races, running, jumping, swimming, wrestling, lance and spear throwing and other robust pastimes.

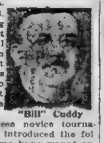
PLANNING FOR MEET FOR LAST TWO YEARS.

Plans for the revival of Aonach Tailteann have been discussed many times, but it was not until recent years that a definite, organized movement was launched. It was at first planned to hold the games in 1923, but the organization at that time had not been perfected sufficiently to warrant the venture.

The intervening period, according to Walsh, has been spent in organization work that has reached the stage where it is assured there will not be further postponement. Arrangements for the accommodation of the athletes who will participate and the spectators who will come have been made, and Ireland expects to entertain royally all those who attend Aonach Tailteann.

LARGE ENTRY LIST FOR ST. JOE'S SHOW

With one of the largest entry lists of the season the five novice classes at the St. Joseph's T. A. S. amateur boxing tournament at Commercial Hall, Bowdoin square, next Monday night is expected to prove the most successful of the year.



"Bill" Cuddy

Ever since these novice tournaments were first introduced the following of the game have waxed enthusiastic. There has been more action in these events than in any other tourneys.

The five classes which will be held Monday night include 112, 118, 126 135 and 147 and entries can be sent to W. H. Cuddy, 85 Cambridge street.

YALE RELAY TEAM FOR BIG MEET

New Haven, Jan. 25.—Coach George Connors of the Yale track team announced the makeup of the varsity team which will run in the two-mile relay in the B. A. A. games Saturday, February 2.

The Blue runners will be Captain Mal Douglas, Chapman, Gelifuss and Bannon. Alvord will be taken along for the 660-yard event and as a substitute on the relay team.

The only other Yale entry in the meet will be the freshman mile relay team, which will be selected tomorrow.

LEWIS APPLIES HEAD LOCKS AND WINS

Ed "Strangler" Lewis defended his wrestling championship title when he defeated Joe Alvarez in Angelo Taramarsco in one hour and thirteen minutes of fast wrestling and fancy grunching head locks.

Joe Alvarez

Taramarsco was the aggressor throughout the first hour and gave the Strangled a terrific battling. But afterwards he weakened under the pressure of the headlocks applied by Lewis and then succumbed.

The second bout lasted for about 20 seconds. Taramarsco was game and started, but the referee stopped the contest as it was obvious that the great Italian was too weak to continue.

In the preliminaries Jack Allbright and Justinia Sylvia, the big Portuguese, went 30 minutes to a draw.

In the semi final Joe Alvarez defeated Ben Alli, the Syrian Tiger, in twelve minutes with a series of headlocks.

There was a full house at the Grand Opera House, where the contests were held and not a seat was vacant. Hundreds were turned away.

Jack Conway, the world's champion poker, named two of the three winners.

Next week Stanley Stasiak will wrestle Joe Alvarez.

My Favorite Punch

By JOE LYNCH

A left handed stab to the nose and then a right across the chin. That's my favorite. I have whipped a lot of men by other means of attack, but I believe my success in the game has come simply through shooting out the left hand, turning my man off balance and then whipping over the right.

Joe Lynch

Sometimes the boys have gone down and stayed there. Other times they have climbed back to their feet, and I had to use an assortment of punches to win the battle.

But I have found that practically all of my real victories have been accomplished because I was able to put over the left to the nose or to the mouth and then follow through in a thrilling fashion with a right hand to the chin that carried everything that I had behind it.

SECRET COURSE FOR CROSS COUNTRY AT OLYMPICS

New York, Jan. 25.—The French Olympic committee has informed the American committee that the cross-country course, over which the Olympic championship will be held in Paris in July, will be kept a secret until the day of the race.

The officials of this country's committee sought information as to the nature of the course. Allan E. Murh, international secretary of the French body, gave assurance, however, that the course will not be very hilly, that there will be practically no road running and that very short spikes may be used to advantage.

IVAN OLSON NAMED AS DODGERS' COACH

New York, Jan. 26.—Ivan Olson, the veteran infielder, will serve as coach of the Dodgers during the 1924 season Olson will succeed Charlie Schmidt, who was given his unconditional release to manage a minor league club.

In addition to acting as manager Wilbert Robinson's assistant, Olson will be available to the Dodgers as a pinch hitter and as an extra infielder. Olson began his big league career with Cleveland in 1911, going from there to Cincinnati and arriving at Brooklyn in 1915 where he has stayed ever since.

EDDIE SHEVLIN IS VICTIM OF VERDICT

Scranton, Jan. 25.—Eddie Shevlin of Boston had the misfortune to be the victim of an unfavorable new verdict after ten fast rounds of boxing with Eddie Burnbrook army champion at the Armory. Shevlin clearly earned six rounds, while two went to Burnbrook, and if 3,000 lovers of clean sport soundly booed the decision.

It was the second bad decision here in two weeks. Shevlin showed complete mastery of the situation and outwitted Barnbrook at every stage and the soldier boy had little opportunity to lead his dangerous swings.

MAPLES DEFEAT HARVARD IN OVERTIME

Again the Maple A. A. hockey team was forced to overtime duty at the Arena, but as they are accustomed to extra work, emerged from the struggle a 3 to 1 winner over the Harvard varsity sextet. The game was not as lively and thrilling as the former tussle, when the teams battled to a 2 to 2 tie.

Dunc Chisholm

Harvard started off with plenty of the old pep, and sent over the first tally when Walked sidestepped a pass to Clark Hodder, the wing who sent the disc by Ames the Maple goalie, who was in the cage in place of the veteran Hurley. The latter is nursing bruises which he received the night before against the B. A. A.

Built on value; growing on value

Beginning today you may buy 1298 men's overcoats made by one of America's best makers and intensively advertised in the Saturday Evening Post as selling "$45 and more"

$15 and $25

"Enough!"

Three weeks ago we announced an extraordinary sale of men's overcoats—2697 coats at $29.50, $39.50 and $49.50, averaging about half what you would expect to pay for such coats.

The first day's business was great. We sold about 800 coats. Then the mild weather came upon us and "flooey" went the overcoat business. To date we have sold about $50,000 worth of these overcoats. There are 1298 of them still here. Now, we don't propose to carry these coats until next season. That isn't the Filene policy. We propose to sell them right away if low prices will do it.

Therefore today you may choose from

607 overcoats $15

Chesterfields in blue, black and brown, self and velvet collars, little more fitted than ordinary Chesterfields. The famous hard wearing melton cloths that are great for knock around wear, and loud overplaids and checks in medium length ulsters and raglans that make ideal motor coats—providing you like the patterns.

691 overcoats $25

The majority of these coats are made of imported fabrics—fabrics men like to own but seldom get at this price. There are plenty raglans, short ulsters and box coats in this lot. But, frankly, we believe, the reason these coats did not sell is because they are a little too extreme in style for conservative Boston men.

The big majority of coats are in sizes 36, 37, 38, but some are oversize—the man who wears over 38 should come early!

HERE'S TIP ON SOLDERING JACKS

Before placing a jack in the panel, "tin" the terminals liberally with solder and without flux. After you have placed your instruments in your set and have wired up and you are about to solder your wires to the jack, "tin" these terminals liberally.

Place your wire on your iron and put your iron on the jack terminal. You will have the neatest joint you ever saw. By this method it is the simplest soldering job in the set.

HOW TO KEEP WELL
By Dr. Mahoney

By DR. F. X. MAHONEY, Boston Health Commissioner.

FRESH air is wonderful, and we cannot have too much of it, and the beneficial effects of cold fresh air are well known through their tonic and other stimulating effects. Whether we work or sleep in the open does not matter so long as we breathe in plenty of fresh air, and if we are fortunate enough so that we work in the open and sleep in the open so much the better.

Dr. Mahoney.

However, despite all the good advantages of fresh air, it has its drawbacks, and that point may be well summarized by noting what Maclie said: "We may write and talk as much as we please about the horrors of bad air and the importance of fresh air, but we should never induce people to sit in cold draughts and shiver for the sake of pure air, and, in fact, we would not want to do it ourselves."

Extremes are dangerous, of course, and those who sit or sleep outdoors should be properly clad and fed. Moreover, there is reason to believe that very cold air may not be good for a cold or bronchitis.

While in the open we should get as much benefit as possible from the fresh air. Breathe it in, make a point to practice deep breathing, and if we take breathing exercises see to it that the breathing or inhalation is deep, slow and rhythmic, through the nose and not the mouth. Muscular exercise stimulates and contributes to deep breathing. Deep breathing if slow is beneficial, but forced, rapid breathing may be otherwise.

Fisher and Fisk mention several things that may be novel in this line. For instance, "a hundred deep breaths a day" is one physician's recipe for avoiding tuberculosis. A Russian author suffering from a nervous breakdown, after trying many remedies, repaired to the mountains and practiced systematic, daily, deep breathing exercises which he claimed affected a cure.

They also speak of an Oriental deep-breathing exercise which insures evening and slowness of the breath. One finger is pressed on the side of the nose, and the nostril closed, breathing in through the other nostril, breathing out of the first nostril in the same manner and then reversing the process. Attention to the slight sound of the air as it passes through one nostril enables the person (breather) to know whether the breathing is regular or slightly irregular.

If you do not work or sleep outdoors, be sure that your workroom and chamber have a sufficient amount of fresh air, with proper ventilation. This simply means keep the air in circulation. We all notice the difference physically if we sit or work long in a heated room without ventilation.

Yes. There is a watery discharge from the nose, sore throat, chilly feeling, cough, muscular prostration, and pains in the head, eyes and limbs.

Is tuberculosis a disease of youth or middle age?—Mrs. T. A. L., Manchester, N. H.

It is called "the great disease of middle life. Between the ages of 20 and 45 occur one-third of all deaths caused by consumption.

How many people die in this country from consumption?—R. K. V., Roxbury.

About 160,000.

Is a consumptive dangerous to live with?—J. B., Lowell

No, if he is careful and observes simple, clean, and ordinary precautions.

What are the simplest things to do when afflicted with consumption?—K. J. M., Boston

Call a doctor; get plenty of sun, outdoor air, good food and rest.

FEDERALS TAKE MORE TOWNS IN OIL REGION

Mexico City, Jan. 25 (A.P.)—Capture of Cerropero and Zacamixtle, important points in the Tampico oil region, by federal forces under Generals Maclas and Lara has been reported by the War Department, which stated that the rebels lost twenty killed and fifty wounded.

The federal offensive against Vera Cruz is proceeding according to the program, it was announced.

The former followers of Francisco Villa have revolted and are now mobilized at Canutillo Durango, under General Manuel Chao, according to dispatches published in Monterey, Nuevo Leon Mexico. General Ignacio Enriquez has been sent from Parral to disband them, it was added.

FARMERS DEPEND ON RADIO FOR CROPS

Washington, Jan. 24.—Radio is now an important factor in the production and marketing of agricultural crops, the Department of Agriculture announces. Greater use of the radio by farmers was revealed to the department through a special survey of 1,200 representative farmers just completed. More than 50 per cent. of the farmers reported they owned tube sets, employing three or more tubes.

About 50 per cent. of the farmers have home made radio sets, ranging from simple crystal detectors to tube sets. Most of the farmers said they were interested in weather and market reports.

MORO BANDS PILLAGE MINDANAO MAINLAND

Manila, Jan. 25 (I. N. S.).—The Colorums, a fanatical organization, have succeeded in reaching the Mindanao mainland from the island of Surigao and have cut communications between the towns of Placer and Malimono, where they are reported recruiting followers, burning and pillaging.

Governor-General Wood is ready to send more reinforcements to the constabulary and possibly scout scouts if the revolt spreads. Governor Wood's yacht is standing by constabulary men to Surigao. The superstition that Aranal, a Philippine national hero, has come to life, is gaining wide credence in many sections.

SHIP OFF CANAL BREAKS INTO BROADCASTS

Proves Fact That Code Interference Can Obtain at Great Distances

A ship off Colon, Panama, caused the principal interference with Thursday's broadcasting in Boston and vicinity.

This is a striking example of the distance at which ship transmission interferes with broadcasting.

The vessel was the Dutch steamer Dreschtijk, and the message was its position report to the naval radio station at Colon.

The evening was otherwise comparatively free from interference, although conditions were unfavorable for DX work.

INTERFERENCE LOG FOR JANUARY 24.

8:00 p. m.—On watch. Static moderate. Reception not good.

Distance reception is unsuccessful, as has been the general case for the past two weeks. For a few fleeting moments around 10 o'clock, WEAF came in with a degree of volume somewhat proportional to that we enjoyed when he first started experimenting with his 5,000-watt transmitter.

10:35 P. M.—HDV, Put Isenmenin report to NAX, United States Naval Radio Station at Colon, Panama. HDV tells NAX he is bound from London to Colon. The fact that he is so far from the New England coast would seem to indicate that it would be improbable for him to interfere with [illegible] reception here in Boston to any extent. This, however, is the exact situation and there have been many evenings when I have noticed bad interference on 600 meters from ships in mid-ocean, and as far south as the northeast coast of Brazil.

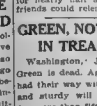
FIRST LOVES OF DOUG AND MARY IN NEWS

Los Angeles, Jan. 25.—Douglas Fairbank's first wife and Mary Pickford's first husband both crash into the news.



Owen Moore

Mrs. Beth Sully Evans, the former Mrs. Fairbanks, admitted here that she was been separated from her second husband, James Evans, Jr., for five months, and that the separation undoubtedly will be permanent.

Owen Moore, Mary Pickford's first husband, is in a hospital here, being nursed for the injuries suffered when his automobile turned over. He was pinned under the car for nearly half an hour before his friends could release him.

GREEN, NOTED AIDE IN TREASURY, DEAD

Washington, Jan. 25.—Richard Green is dead. Age and illness have had their way with the proud frame and sturdy will of the negro who for more than fifty years had served a long line of Treasury secretaries as their confidential messenger. Appointed in 1871, Green has traveled throughout the United States, Europe and South America with various secretaries, and stationed outside the door of the Treasury chief's office, his height and bearing have attracted the admiration of visitors.

BUILDERS MUST TAKE TIME ON HOME SETS

Accurate Assembly of Parts Is Essential to Success

By THE RADIATOR.

A radio part is, or rather should be, a delicately balanced instrument. It has accurate work to perform and it must be performed just about right if we desire a really good set.

When you start out to buy the parts for a set, go to the best radio store you know and demand the best apparatus. Ask the price after you have decided. Do not let the price stand in the way, and if you cannot afford a three-tube set at this price be content with a GOOD one-tube set at first and gradually add to it. It is the greatest economy in the long run.

Far better to have a good one-tube set than a cheap, makeshift three-tube set. You will find much more satisfaction in knowing that you have the best.

No matter how good the apparatus, unless we have the set neatly wired it will not work satisfactorily. Instead of taking two hours to build a set, take two weeks. Do not be in such a hurry to listen in, there are more programs coming, and if you must wait it is better to buy a complete set outright.

JOINT-EASE For Stiff, Swollen Joints
Rheumatic or Otherwise
Says: "When Joint-Ease Gets in—Joint Agony Gets Out."

It was a high-class pharmacist who saw prescription after prescription fail to help hundreds of his customers, to get rid of rheumatic swellings and stiff inflamed joints.

And it was this same man who asserted that a remedy could and would be found that would make creaky, swollen, tormented joints work with just as much smoothness as they ever did.

Now this prescription, rightly named Joint-Ease, after being tested successfully on many obstinate cases, is offered through progressive pharmacists to the millions of people who suffer from ailing joints that make life a burden.

Swollen, twingy, inflamed, stiff, pain-tormented joints are usually caused by rheumatism, and whatever the cause Joint-Ease soaks right in, through skin and flesh and gets right to and corrects the trouble at its source.

Remember Joint-Ease is for ailments of the joints, whether in ankle, knee, hip, elbow, shoulder, spine or finger, and when you rub it on, you may expect speedy and gratifying results.

It is on sale at druggists everywhere for 60 cents a tube.

CLEVER SINGER BEAT RULING ON POINTS

Singer's Novel Idea Gets Over Her Point, but Never Again

Point to point communication through a broadcasting station is prohibited by resolution of the Department of Commerce. Many artists frequently apply to broadcasting stations for the opportunity to sing or speak in order that someone relative of a distant point may hear their voice.

One experienced radio artist who appeared at WEAF succeeded in "putting one over." Having appeared frequently she was thoroughly familiar with the rule against point to point communication. A few hundred miles away there was a party of prominent newspaper writers to whom she wished to pay her compliments. She mentioned this to WEAF's announcer, but added, of course, that she knew the regulation and would not say anything before the microphone which could be construed as a violation of the rule.

In the course of her program she sang a popular ballad, ending a verse of her own composition at the end. It cleverly fitted the music and mentioned every member of the party whom she wished to reach. But WEAF's staff will never be fooled that way again.

FORBES' VIEWS ON FINANCE

—By B. C. Forbes—

Have most investors failed to grasp the full significance of the improvement which has been brought about in the position of the railroads?

The failure of railway shares to advance in line with industrial issues suggests that, for some reason or other, the rails have not received a full share of attention.

Our principal railroads, with few exceptions, have strengthened their position tremendously. Yet their shares, to most investors, have not shown corresponding betterment.

The deduction may reasonably be drawn that, during the next upward movement in the stock market, carefully selected railway issues should do well.

First of all, our railroads have brought about a higher state of efficiency than ever before achieved. They are getting more average daily work out of their locomotives and distinctly more mileage out of their freight cars. Not only so, but the average load per car has been substantially increased. In other words, transportation is now being conducted by American railroads more skillfully than ever before.

Second, labor conditions are more satisfactory than they have been in years. The general testimony is that the men employed now have a right spirit towards their work and towards their company. They are doing more work. Furthermore, quite a number of rules and regulations which tended to restrict the usefulness and productivity of the men have been abolished after much discussion and negotiating.

True, wages are more than twice what they were before the war, and a 5 per cent increase is being granted various classes of workers right now. But this addition to the payroll is calculated to be offset by the economies obtainable from those benefiting from it.

Third, the whole attitude of the American public toward the railroads has undergone a change. The folly of many legislative proposals which cripple transportation is now better recognized.

Fourth, the continued inflow of gold to this country is bringing about a superabundance of capital and of credit. Whenever there becomes over-plentiful, the tendency is to divert the surpluses to the securities markets. Hence, when an loan brings less than 5 per cent, and not as much as that for day-to-day money, Wall Street says there is inducement to turn to bonds or high grade stocks which yield a distinctly more.

Fifth, railway profits have shown such solid progress that the credit of most systems has greatly improved. Investment buying by small investors and, perhaps, some others, still hesitate to buy railway securities because of their unsettling action. Let this fear disappear entirely, and the chances all are that a widespread demand for railway stocks and bonds would set in. Investors who would not touch railway stocks when profits were very meagre, feel differently when profits of volume are being earned.

COTTON COST HITS CANADIAN MILLS

Cotton textile mills of Canada are experiencing greater slackness than in the past ten years. Many are running half-time. Cause is high price of raw cotton, which has forced manufactured prices to a point where the trade will not buy more than immediate requirements. From beginning of war until middle of last year the mills were operating well up to capacity.

U. S. STEEL IS AT NEW HIGH FOR YEAR

Buying orders were well distributed over a broad list in a firm New York stock market today.

In the first hour U. S. Steel jumped a major fraction to a new high for the year. As previously stated in Tuesday's reading another item on U. S. Steel is generally considered certain, the doubt being about its size.

American Can rose around 2 points to a new record top. Both Steel and Can changed hands in big lots.

Operations for the rise were influenced by the large amount of idle capital seeking employment, a further advance in Pennsylvania Crude Oil, higher car loadings and other favorable trade developments.

Gen Pershing's preferred U. S. Cast Iron Pipe, Davison Chemical, American Agricultural Chemical preferred and American Tobacco, which dropped 1 to 2 points, caused later prices in the general list to tone off.

Call money opened at 4 per cent.

In trading on the Boston Stock Exchange United Fruit was up over a point, John T. Connor Co. has advanced 1¼ to 27¾ in the last three days, the highest figure in several months. The company is understood to have had the best quarter in its history for the three months ended Dec 31. Net is likely to equal over $1 earned after all charges on the common stock in the preceding full year of less than quarterly.

Activity Broadens in New York Bond Market

Influenced by continued low money rates and by increasing investment demand, activity broadened in New York bond dealings with buying interests centered in the speculative issues. Some and copper bonds with convertible features led the advance. Oversea, Cuban and Peruvian, up another 2 points and Puna de Alegre and Eastern Cuba Sugar issues exceeding their recent gains. Speculative Utility and Industrial issues, based on the possibility of a cancellation of the leases on the Muscle Shoals plant, were also active.

Weakness also developed in the Virginia Carolina Chemical's and the B. F. Goodrich issues, voided more than 4 points on the

STELLA DALLAS — By Olive Higgins Prouty

New and Intensely Interesting Serial of a Marriage of an Educated Man to an Untutored Woman

HOW THE STORY STARTED

Stella Dallas and her husband, Stephen, do not live together. They have a daughter, thirteen years old, named Laurel, who stays most of the year with the mother. They visit a Summer hotel in New England, where the other guests look askance at the painted, overdressed elder woman. The time has come for Laurel to visit her father in New York. He meets her at the station and takes her to a hotel. She goes to visit Mrs. Morrison. The story now goes back to the marriage of Stephen and Stella at Milhampton. Stella starts a flirtation with Alfred Munn. The leading women of the town begin to drop her. Stephen, deciding he can never go back to her, starts a divorce suit. The story then goes back to Mrs. Morrison's marriage to her aged millionaire suitor. The latter dies and Stephen confesses his love to the widow. Stella and Laurel get in with a society set at a Summer hotel and Laurel goes canoeing with Richard Grosvenor. Laurel overhears remarks about her mother and they leave the hotel. Stella has a plan.

By OLIVE HIGGINS PROUTY

Author of "Bobbie, General Manager," "The Fifth Wheel," "The Star in the Window," Etc.

IT was easier than she had supposed. Laurel's hostility to Ed was so white-hot that even a reference to him kindled a controversy.

Therefore, Stella referred to him frequently in a light and inconsequential vein, laughing at Laurel's opposition. Not only did she refer to Ed, but she saw him; she made engagements with him; she kept engagements with him; she stayed out with him until after one o'clock on one occasion; failed to appear for supper and telephone, on another.

One afternoon defiantly, she established Ed, in an armchair in the living room of the apartment and errand on that Laurel, due home from downtown, would find him when she came in. She repeated this a week later. Oh, it was too bad. She hated to watch the slow torture her procedure was to the child. But it couldn't be avoided. Somehow she must make her marriage to Ed seem logical.

Laurel's light laughter faded, disappeared; the soft light in her eyes hardened like a disillusioned lover's. Night after night she lay, on the extreme edge of the bed, beside her mother, silent and unrelenting, and drifted into an unrefreshing sleep. She grew years older.

One afternoon in early June, after a particularly difficult morning of argument with her mother about Alfred Munn (afterwards Stella had called good bye to Lollie out of the front window, but she wouldn't answer), she returned to the apartment to find it empty. There was a note fastened to the handle of the oven-door on the gas-stove in the kitchen. Laurel discovered it when she went out to get some supper.

Dear Lollie (the note said)

I guess you won't be much surprised. I guess you've sort of seen the way the wind was blowing. Ed has wanted me to marry him for years, and as I hadn't any good reason not to now, I'll be Mrs. Alfred Munn when you read this. I would of told you all about it, but I knew how you felt about poor Ed, and it would only of meant more fuss.

Ed's got a grand job down in South America, and he's crazy to have me go down there with him. You know I never had much of a chance to travel, and it seems a big chance for me. So I'm jumping at it. We may be gone a year or two. I'll send you my address when we get one.

"I've had to give up my sleeve once a long while marrying Ed, I mean. You can't explain everything to a child. That was why I hoped you'd stay with your father. But when you didn't, of course I had to keep my promise to Ed just the same. It would of been fair if I didn't, and wouldn't listen to anything else. He's been waiting for me all the time you've been growing up, and I won't say I haven't been waiting, too. I've tried my best to make you see Ed the way I do these last weeks, but you just won't. So I've given up trying and gone ahead and done what I think is right.

Ed and I will be back and close up the apartment, sometime before we sail. I guess we three can fit in somehow. I hope you'll be nice to him though, now he's your sort of father.

When you're out leave the key under the mat, same as usual. So and I may be back at nine.

Love from

Your Mother

P. S.—It was too bad you wouldn't turn round this morning and wave good-bye.

Stephen and Helen returning late from town the next evening to their summer home on Long Island they had just moved down were surprised upon entering the hall to hear a sound in the living room—a chair suddenly shoved back soft swift footsteps. They stopped to the door of the room.

It was Laurel! She still wore her hat. Her suitcase still stood by the chair where she had been sitting.

"Why, Laurel! Why, my dear!" exclaimed Stephen, explained Helen, both hastening toward her.

They met her in the middle of the room. They kissed her—both of them. She returned neither caress.

"What is it, Laurel?"

She was very white. Her eyes had a startled, frightened expression.

"I've come back," she said quietly. "I'll stay now, if you want me—if you'll take me." She made no gesture, her expression did not change. There was fixed determination about her as hard as adamant.

"What has happened, Laurel?"

"I've been put out. I've no other place to go but here. If you don't want me—if—"

"You know we want you!" exclaimed Helen. "Dear child, come, sit down. You're tired and had a long journey. Why haven't you taken off your—"

Laurel remained standing, moving neither muscle of her body. Mother has married [illegible] Mother has married [illegible]

Stephen said, "Oh!"

Helen said, "I shall take off your hat and coat," and quickly, deftly, she removed the small toque and laid it aside on a table. Laurel standing listless and inert. "[illegible] The administration [illegible] Please. That's better. Why, you must have been waiting a long time!" lightly she went on. "I ought to have telephoned when you reached New York."

Laurel looked at her. Helen's voice was as the voice of a tolling bell.

WAYS OF A HUSBAND

SEQUEL TO "WHEN A GIRL MARRIES"

By Ann Lisle

Ann Lisle

I WHEELED [illegible] on my problem. At last I felt that the wife had won and the woman of business was defeated. I made up my mind to [illegible] and [illegible] has [illegible] my work and to work only for him. If he could have [illegible] again the chivalry and protection and love he had once given me.

Perhaps I misunderstand. Perhaps I was weak. But I knew that I could live without the work that was part of me as I could live without my right hand. But I couldn't live without Jim.

And so I decided on my sacrifice. Grimly I turned back to my desk. I knew that it would take several weeks of concentrated effort to get my affairs in order. I realized that having granted on the campaign to advertise the great Shipping Corporation with its insurance and [illegible] building branches, I couldn't [illegible] draw all in a moment. I had to [illegible] things in order. I had to find an assistant who could work with Betty. She must be as much a diplomat as an advertising expert.

But tomorrow I would tell Jim of the impending change in my life. Already in imagination I felt myself sobbing it out on his arms. I gloried in visioning my pride in the dust at his feet. I felt his arms going closer, closer about me, and his lips on mine—

Dragging myself back from my imaginings I fell to work again.

When the fascination of the job got me by the throat I stopped to fortify myself with two examples of women who have given up their places in the world of business to take their places contentedly and beautifully in the world of home and love.

ANSWER TO WRONG HERE PROBLEM

Do you try to eat Saratoga chips with your fork. It cannot be done and need not.

There is Carlotta, never mentioned [illegible] since the day she ceased being Carlotta Sturges, head of the great Dalton-Sturges Corporation, and began to [illegible] Norreys' wife.

The other side of the shield presented itself to me with full force. Does London's marriage to Basil Heath was not doomed to failure on the rocks till she went to Hollywood and through the [illegible] with Tom Mason [illegible] information.

I began to worry in my choice. My heart fairly sang. Every time I [illegible] was part of my own song to my office. In a few weeks—a few months at most—I would be behind me and I would be in my home working there at the little things which must satisfy me because they were what Jim wanted me to do.

The [illegible] loose through my failure to go deeply into the Shipping Corporation's transactions seemed nothing. I fed myself on the road back to Jim's heart. That was enough.

I was so deep in my work that darkness and 9 o'clock came before I realized. And at 9 I was [illegible] for an evening's [illegible] Peter and Ralph. I loved the two directors of the [illegible] I would take me at least twenty minutes to get to Betty's, so I took down the receiver and telephoned my explanations and apologies.

"I'll take a taxi and be there in twenty minutes," I said.

"Wait a minute," replied Betty. "Oh—Anne, Ralph says he has the car and he'll shoot down in a jiffy and get you. Peter was delayed, too. So if you're here by nine-thirty it will be all right. Wait for Ralph. See you later, dear."

MRS. SOLOMON SAYS---

By HELEN ROWLAND

MY Daughter, blessed is the soul of Tut-Ankh-Amen, and his spirit saith, "Ha, ha."

For, verily, he hath escaped many things.

Though his [illegible] he [illegible] than [illegible] and [illegible] yet he [illegible] NO [illegible] for [illegible]

Helen Rowland

His cellar runneth over, and the price of wine doth not trouble him.

His conscience is clearer than a newly-plucked eyebrow.

For him, the Flapper hath no terrors and his heart hath never been affrighted by Feminism.

For, in His house, there were many women, but only ONE throne, one opinion, one vote, one set of golf sticks and one brand of cigarettes.

And, in the art of making a husband happy, each woman was a specialist.

For he hath never seen a woman in Russian rubber boots, neither hath he beheld a debutante dancing at a jazz-party. And the taint of the lipstick hath not destroyed his joy in a damsel's kisses, nor the saxophone and the cowbell his delight in music.

He hath pondered many problems of State, but the DIVORCE problem hath not worried him. For, with a scimitar and slow poison, he SETTLED things and thus avoided scandal.

The price of sables and the cost of Paris hats never vexed him.

For though the women of his house numbered seven times seventy, yet could he array them all, royally, in a few yards of chiffon and a few spangles.

Behold, in the tomb of Tut-Ankh-Amen were found many viands—but only ONE wife.

For he held that in the life hereafter, feasting would be pleasanter than arguments, and sweetmeats more acceptable than kisses and repartee.

But, ONE wife he took with him, that he might have SOME one to blame for his mistakes.

Verily, verily, many evils hath Tut-Ankh-Amen escaped and his spirit saith, "Ha, ha."

For, where he dwelleth, peradventure, there are no Blue Laws, no Women's Clubs, no Censors and no Coal Shortage.

And, in his simplicity, he STILL believeth that a "rib" is but a RIB, a woman is only a woman and a wife and a pet peacock but a part of the BACKGROUND.

"Reno" Pork Chops

Two Spanish onions, 1 can tomato soup, 6 pork chops, mashed potato. Cut up the onions in a dish which can be set on top of range, place the chops on top of onions with 1 cup hot water, bake or steam till nice and tender. When well cooked remove to a hot platter. Cover with a can of heated tomato soup slightly diluted. Make a wall around the edge of platter of well seasoned mashed potato. Chops served this way are more digestable than when fried.

CORRECT MANNERS

By Mrs. Cornelius Beeckman

DEAR MRS BEECKMAN:

Occasionally I go out with a young man whom I have known since childhood. He appears to be very fond of me, although I simply like him and advise him for his good qualities. Now he has spoken of giving me a ring—my birthstone—for a gift. Should I accept such a gift from him, as I do not like to hurt his feelings? H. T.

I NEVER recommend that ladies accept gifts of value from gentlemen to whom they are not engaged. Are you sure, dear H. T., that it is only his feelings that you are considering? And I wonder, too, if his feelings will not be a bit hurt if you do accept such an important present?

DEAR MRS BEECKMAN:

A wedding is to take place at 5 o'clock. There are to be three bridesmaids, a maid of honor and a flower girl. The bride will not be given away by anybody. Will you kindly tell me just what order the procession takes coming down the aisle of the church? Is the flower girl just before the bridesmaids or just before the maid of honor and bride?

(2) Then where does she stand when they reach the altar?

(3) Many of the bridal party will be in evening dress. Is it proper as a guest to wear a light color chiffon gown, even though others may be in dark colors? The gown is sleeveless and decollete. A READER.

THE best order is: (1) one; (2) two by two, (2) two bridesmaids, walking together, and walk by alone; (3) the maid of honor, walking alone; (4) the flower girl, and (5) the bride.

The recessional in the reverse order: first the bride and groom, next the flower girl; next, the maid of honor, the bridesmaids alone, the two bridesmaids, and last the ushers, two by two.

May I suggest that if the bride chose another bridesmaid, her wedding party would be very much more balanced and the picture more effective? With three bridesmaids, and with the bride having no one to give her in marriage, it means that the procession will have four members walking alone, and in succession, too; three will be one bridesmaid, the maid of honor, the flower girl and the bride. It is fitting that the maid of honor walk alone and that the flower girl walk alone, and if she wishes, for the bride to walk alone, but it is not such good form for a bridesmaid to walk alone.

(2). The flower girl stands on the left of the maid of honor. She stands on the left of, and a few steps behind, the bride.

(3). Yes.

WHAT THE STARS SAY

UNLUCKY TO INVEST.

RATHER inimical influences govern on this day, according to the lunar transits. Mars, Mercury and Venus are adverse, but Saturn, sextile with Lunar, is friendly. Under this latter figure, gain in business, popularity, credit and esteem may be looked for, also substantial friends, probably elderly. Law and quarrels should be avoided and the household should be protected against strife and discord or grief. Those in the employment of others may successfully seek benefits if undeniably deserving. It will be a disappointing day to invest.

Tomorrow will be lucky for lovers.

WHO SAID IT AND WHERE

"Revenge is profitable, gratitude is expensive."

In this line, Edward Gibbon, in his "Decline and Fall of Rome," gives the attitude of many Romans toward their fellow citizens in the closing epochs of the Roman Empire.

"Restless anxiety, forlorn despair and all the faded family of care."

There are many rare abilities in the world that fortune never brings to light.

To the timid and hesitating everything seems impossible because it seems so.

Youth is to be brought into subjection by reasoning, not by force.

There is nothing truly valuable which can be purchased without pains and labor.

There is only one way of seeing things rightly, and that is, seeing the whole of them.

Nothing is ever done beautifully which is done in rivalship, nor nobly which is done in pride.

Robbing life of friendship is like robbing the world of the sun.

Popularity, if purchased at the expense of base condescension to vice, is a disgrace to the possessor.

MEDBURY SAYS---

By John P. Medbury

THOUSANDS of wives are already beginning to suffer from radio husbands. One woman had her mate arrested and charged him with broadcasting in his sleep.

SHE woke up the other night and found her husband twisting her ear trying to tune in a distant station.

HE also had two "B" batteries connected to her nose and was sitting there wondering why it wouldn't light up.

NOT only that, but he had a phonograph attachment fastened to her Adam's apple and was trying to make a loud speaker out of her throat.

HE said he was using her tonsils for amplifiers.

HE discovered afterward that he was only wasting his time because she had had them taken out ten years ago.

EVERY time she snored, he cursed a blue streak. He thought it was static.

THEN when she began talking in her sleep he was positive he had station K. P. O. in San Francisco.

THE thing that made him wild was when she stopped talking without a good-by.

IF you're a fan and go in much for radio there's only one way to get rid of interference, and that is, divorce the wife.

Built to Reproduce the Battery and Bowling Green in Marion Davies' Picture

The largest and most remarkable indoor set ever used in a motion picture was constructed for Marion Davies' Cosmopolitan super-special, "Little Old New York," at the Park Theatre.

It is a reproduction of the Battery and Bowling Green as they looked a century ago, during which picturesque period scenes of "Little Old New York" are laid.

No studio in the world was big enough to hold this imposing set, which measured 200x200 feet, and covered a floor space of 60,000 feet. The only kind of structure with sufficient floor space, was an armory. But to get possession of one, many difficulties had to be overcome not least of which was a tenancy of more than a month.

60,000 FEET OF SPACE.

Some idea of the magnitude of this wonderful set may be had from a comparison with the famous "Streets of Paris," set in Marion Davies' "When Knighthood Was in Flower." This latter set, the biggest ever constructed up to that time, required 28,000 square feet of floor space, to the 60,000 for this gigantic one for "Little Old New York."

To light this set properly presented a great problem which was finally solved by providing special generators capable of furnishing 1,250,000 watts. The immense set was illuminated by 45 sunlight arcs, of 1,000,000 candle power each, 24 domes or overhead "hard" lights; 36 banks, or side lights; and 30 spotlights. This enormous candle power made the most remote recesses of the armory glisten as with dazzling sunlight.

45 GIGANTIC LAMPS.

To give some idea of the exceptional lighting of this set, it may be understood that lights with such enormous candle power as sunlight arcs have only been used within the last two or three years. Most motion picture studios boast with pride of one sunlight arc, and some of the larger ones have two or three. This single set had as part of its lighting 45 of these gigantic lamps.

Bowling Green in 1807 was the most exclusive residential district of New York. There were located the homes of the Schuylers, the Delevans, of the first John Jacob Astor, the first Cornelius Vanderbilt, of the De Puysters and the Livingstons. There, too, was the old firehouse. All of these and many other mansions—52 buildings in all—are shown.

Broadway's winding course is pictured, as are all of the important side streets that existed in that day. The streets of New York, a century ago, were lined with beautiful trees. These have been faithfully reproduced, some of the trees being 40 feet in height, and 12 inches thick.

TREE LEAVES COST $7,000.

An interesting sidelight on the expense of creating this remarkable replica of early New York's fashionable district may be gathered from the fact that the leaves required for the trees cost $7,000.

Joseph Urban designed this remarkable set from historical data gathered by experts. So far as it is possible this gigantic set will faithfully depict every detail of Bowling Green, as it existed in the days of Robert Fulton, Washington Irving, and other famous early New Yorkers.

"PAT" IS SWORN TO SECRECY

SCENE FROM "LITTLE OLD NEW YORK"

John O'Day (J. M. Kerrigan), makes his daughter Patricia (Marion Davies), masquerading as her deceased brother "Pat," take an oath at his death bed that she will never reveal her true identity to Larry Delevan, who holds in trust the large fortune bequeathed the supposed "Pat" by her uncle, Larry's stepfather. Thousands are now flocking to see Miss Davies in "Little Old New York" at the Park Theatre, Boston.

NIGHT RAIDS ON CAFES BANNED BY JUDGE

New York Jurist Rules Police Must Make Liquor-Hunting Visits in Daytime

New York, Jan. 25.—Night time raids on cafes and other places suspected of having liquor in violation of the prohibition law are virtually precluded under a ruling made by Judge Learned Hand in Federal District Court today, according to Assistant United States District Attorney John M. Cashin.

Judge Hand's ruling was made in the case of Paul Taorima, against whose premises search warrants, for service either day or night, were issued by United States Commissioner Hitchcock upon allegation by Federal agents that they had seen liquor being served on the premises.

The court upheld a motion to vacate the warrants on the ground that there was no positive allegation made on which a search warrant could legally be issued.

The ruling, Mr. Cashin explained, was based on a section of the espionage law, from which the Volstead act derives its power of search and seizure, that a search warrant must be served in the day time unless accompanied by an affidavit definitely alleging that the property sought is actually on the premises to be searched.

Indianapolis—As a result of a poll of Congress by the American Legion, Garland W. Powell predicts a drastic restriction, if not complete suspension of immigration is to be expected of the present Congress.

MARION DAVIES STARTS WORK ON NEW FILM

Scenes From Boston Tea Party Filmed for "Janice Meredith"

It is announced by the Cosmopolitan Corporation that E. Mason Hopper has been engaged to direct Marion Davies in her next starring vehicle, "Janice Meredith," a picturization of Paul Leicester Ford's great romance woven around the American Revolution. Actual filming on the new production was started this week by Hopper with the camera cranking out scenes from the "Boston Tea Party" at the Jackson Studio in the Bronx. "Little Old New York," by the way, which is now delighting enthusiastic audiences at the Park Theatre, is showing in sixteen different theatres in New York this week.

THE CINEMA followers are looking forward to Harold Lloyd's newest laugh-provoker, "Girl Shy," now ready for early shipment East. Gossip has it that the comedy is another "Grandma's Boy," with added quantity, of Lloydian thrills and laughs.

BUSTER BROWN, R. F. Outcault's famous cartoon creation, is rapidly heading for the screen as the first story is nearing completion, under the capable attention of several "gagmen" and comedy scenario writers at the Century comedy studio. A suitable Buster, Mary Jane, and an intelligent canine actor for Tige are being considered.

WHETHER or not you believe in spiritualism, if your mind is depressed by the loss of a loved one, you are credulous and hope that you might hear from that person, so dear to you. This psychological weakness, worked on by the modern crook and fake medium, is exposed in the James Kirkwood—Lila Lee production, "Love's Whirlpool" for the Hodkinson Corporation. The new film in process, which is said to render Lila Lee her greatest chance for emotional display, is a screen version of Martha Lord's story, "The Inner Light."

SALTS FINE FOR ACHING KIDNEYS

When Back Hurts Flush Your Kidneys With Jad Salts

Most folks forget that the kidneys, like the bowels, sometimes get sluggish and clogged and need a flushing occasionally, else we have backache and dull misery in the kidney region, severe headaches, rheumatic twinges, torpid liver, acid stomach, sleeplessness and all sorts of bladder disorders.

You simply must keep your kidneys active and clean and the moment you feel an ache or pain in the kidney region begin drinking lots of water. Also get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any good drug store here, take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and is intended to flush clogged kidneys and help stimulate them to activity. It also helps neutralize acids so they no longer irritate, thus helping to relieve bladder disorders.

Jad Salts is inexpensive; makes a delightful effervescent lithia water drink which everybody should take now and then to help keep their kidneys clean.

A well-known local druggist says he sells lots of Jad Salts to folks who believe in trying to correct kidney trouble while it is only trouble. By all means have your physician examine your kidneys at least twice a year.

FRUIT STANDS NET 300 P. C. ON APPLE SALES

Other Kinds Bought for Four Cents Cost Consumer Ten Cents, Survey Shows

New York, Jan. 25.—The report of the Department of Agriculture gives the holdings of apples in the United States January 1 as 4,498,000 barrels, 14,170,000 bushel boxes and 3,823,000 bushel baskets, near double the amount available a year ago.

The wholesale cost of apples early averages more than 1 cent each or the barreled and 1½ to 2 cents on the boxed and basket packed. A few extra boxed apples cost from 3½ to 4½ cents wholesale, but the bulk averages at 2 cents the apple or less. Profiteering retail fruit dealers are still charging as high as 15 cents for large table apples, which is about 300 per cent. over wholesale cost, and 10 cents for apples that could retail profitably at 4 cents each.

Some of the chain stores sell these apples at fairly reasonable cost, but this is offset by the majority of retailers. Witness: A fruitstand man can retail at 30 to 35 cents the dozen, while good table apples could be sold up to 10 cents the dozen for medium size fruit.

Only One Johnson & Co.

Editor Boston American:

It has recently come to my attention that in a recent news article in the Boston American regarding the Wellington & Co. and Day & Co. business, you stated that one of the firms named under which this firm operated was Johnson & Co.

I have been to the Public Utility Department and complained about this statement and I have been assured by them that no license was ever issued to any Johnson & Co. other than us. Let me assure you that we were never connected with any Wellington & Co. or any Day & Co.

M. JOHNSON.

Alimony and Income

Editor Boston American:

How perfectly consistent of that wife, whose husband's salary is but $2,640, to ask for monthly alimony of $300. Since the sands began changing color through the hourglass, woman's idea has been how much she can get rather than how to help her husband. In this particular instance the man, poor human, would owe himself $960 of the total each year. Inconsistency, then art a jewel.

E. A. LESSNER.

Unfair Immigration

Editor Boston American:

When Ellis Island officials see fit to deport the mother of five children merely because the quota is filled and despite the fact that she has five children and her husband, who has fought in home in this country, who must be left on this side, isn't it about time to straighten out these immigration laws? Picture the helpless father with his brood of five and the almost crazed mother en route to the old home, there to await another chance to arrive before the quota has been filled, and then picture the many undesirables admitted just because the quota has not been reached.

MRS. E. KINCHLEY.

THE HELPING HAND

garterudes, two shirts, two bands, two pairs of rubber boots, one dozen diapers, one pair garters. Now, Mr. Editor, please don't send me a letter pleading me for my position, as you might make me think I did something wonderful—I did not. The giving of these articles to the baby is merely triviality; and is a source of pleasure to me.

We are forbearing to write, as you request, but we leave it to the other readers if you don't deserve praise. And incidentally the other readers don't know what a busy man you are. Perhaps you would be interested in the following letter from Mrs. H. A. E., who does not know who really sent the baby clothes:

"I received the most wonderful box of baby clothes from ——— (everything new and perfect) by Mrs. V. N., assistant shopping counselor. I never knew there were such kind people in the world. I also wrote to the other address you sent me, E. I. H., but have received no answer."

Clothes For Little Girl

Editor Helping Hand:

Will you please send me the address of someone who has a little girl between the ages of two and three, as I have some clothes I would like to give her. I also have two men's union suits, size 36 and in good condition.

Thank you. You have been sent the address of Mrs. A. C., whose husband is out of work, and who needs clothing for a girl two.

Husband Very Sick

Editor Helping Hand:

I am a mother of six children. My husband is laid up with tuberculosis and has been in the hospital for six months, and has not been able to work since. He is pretty sick now, and coughs every night. Every time I look at him I have to cry. Christmas time he told the children he didn't think he would be with them next Christmas. I have been doing washing, but get so tired out. If any reader could help us with clothing, I would be very grateful. I have six boys, fourteen, thirteen, twelve, seven, five, and baby two years old. They all need overcoats, especially. Both my husband and I take size 38 or 40.

MRS. C. W.

Will Help New Baby

Editor Helping Hand:

Please send me the name of some poor woman who has a new baby. I have some infant's clothing I would like to give to someone who needs them. C. F. H.

Thank you. You have been sent the address for Mrs. E. C., who writes her husband has been out of work and they have had several doctor's bills to pay.

Needs Clothes and Bedding

Editor Helping Hand:

I am writing to you asking if you could help me as you have many others. I have a large family of six children and expect another in two months. My husband gets small pay and no pay at all in stormy weather. We had a fire and lost all our bedding and have been unable to get any more. I would like to ask for clothing for a child six and one for a baby two years old, and also any bedding of any kind, such as sheets, pillow cases, etc. I am not been able to get anything for the little one, as what I had was lost in the fire. MRS. H. M. S.

Overcoat For Man

Editor Helping Hand:

I have a man's overcoat, size about 42, also a suit for a girl size sixteen, and a lady's coat size 38 or 40, and also a dress size 38. I would like the name and address of anyone who wants them.

MRS. H. W. S.

Thank you. You have been sent the address of Mrs. C. V. N., who will appreciate the man's and women's clothing, and of E. D., a girl sixteen.

BOSTON AMERICAN

Largest Evening Circulation in New England— January 25, 1924

The great value of the 265 acres of reclaimed land at South Boston is a feature rarely combined with a park undertaking.

"Promoting Peace, Outlawing War"

Very Pretty, but It Wouldn't Happen

Copyright, 1924, Star Co.

An earnest gentleman writes from the Hotel Tetley, Riverside, California, to the "Today" column of the Boston American, as follows:

"My wife this morning after reading your column, exclaimed, 'Isn't it a shame that such a great man should use his abilities to ridicule an offer like Mr Bok made, for promoting peace and outlawing war.'"

It would be a shame, if there were any ridiculing, or any real prospect of promoting peace or outlawing war.

Unfortunately, Mr. Bok's offer, well meant, only resulted in digging up the deeply buried corpse of the League of Nations and offering that as a brand NEW idea—after the American people had buried it with seven million votes to spare.

"Promoting peace and outlawing war" would be beautiful; promoting health and outlawing diseases would be beautiful also. But there is no sense in chasing a will-o'-the-wisp or investing effort on cash in a mirage.

The League of Nations, which some grave-diggers dug up and offered to Mr. Bok for cash, would PROMOTE war and DISCOURAGE peace, as far as this country is concerned.

It would drag us into the affairs of Europe, make us responsible for their wars and their bills—that's what Europe wants and ALL THAT EUROPE WANTS.

Ask any Englishman, Frenchman or Italian, acquainted with the facts, "What do you want from the United States? Do you want our advice? Do you want our friendly SYMPATHY? Or do you want our CASH and our MEN—in case you need them?"

If the man you question replies truthfully he will say, "NO THANKS, NO ADVICE, NO SYMPATHY; we have plenty of both. What we want is MEN and MONEY. We should like to have the United States in the league because we know you have plenty of money and plenty of men.

"We got ten billions of cash from you and three millions of men once before. We don't forget that."

That's what the League of Nations really MEANS to Europe.

The wife of the gentleman of Riverside, California, is assured that if the League of Nations meant promoting peace and outlawing war this newspaper would be for it.

The way to promote peace and outlaw war is for the United States to set the good example. Keep peace here, keep out war by always being ready for it, with plenty of flying machines and submarines.

Remember that there are sixteen hundred million people on this earth. A thousand millions of them are not far from the savage state. Of the remaining six hundred millions five hundred millions are ready to fight for what they want if they think they can win the fight.

We are only twelve thousand years from the Stone Age. We are fifty thousand years away from real civilization.

Here and there where little civilized cases occur on the globe they should be carefully protected.

And the United States especially should concentrate its energies HERE, keep away from European entanglements and promote peace by setting the good example.

War will be outlawed only by education and by the lapse of time.

Exposure of Quacks

Boston American Will Do All It Can to Protect the Public Against Fake Doctors

The Boston American and the Boston Advertiser have been engaged in exposing the fake doctors and the fake fortune-tellers. These two classes of frauds are among the most cruel which that queer combination of credulity and dishonesty in human nature can produce.

Ordinarily a thief steals only the money he gets, but these fakers are worse. They not only steal the money, but they inflict infinitely greater harm on the minds and the bodies of their victims.

The fake doctor misleads you concerning the character of your illness and prolongs it and often greatly increases it, either by giving you improper medicine or laying out ignorantly an improper regime nor by preventing you from seeking intelligent assistance.

A fake fortune-teller excites the weak-minded credulity of his victims and inspires them in a course of conduct which is often not only injurious to the mind and the fortunes and the body of the victim, but to their families and even to their friends.

We know a man in this community whose mother was greatly excited by these soothsayers and fortune-tellers and led to a course of conduct exceedingly injurious both to herself and to her family.

This man employed a detective to follow his mother and learn where she was going to receive her harmful excitement.

In each case, on discovering the faker who was advising her, it was only necessary to threaten him with exposure in order to make him refuse to give the obsessed woman another reading.

But her son soon found that there were so many other fakers in the city that it would take a year to run them all down, and by that time the mother could go back to the first one who might have forgotten her and thus inadvertantly might give her another seance.

Unoccupied women at a certain period of their lives are the easy victims of these fakers.

The Boston American is going to do all it can to protect them from themselves and to protect their families from an overdose of these fake plagues.

Liquor and the High School

One of the results of the New England Citizenship Conference meetings at Boston has been the determination to carry the campaign against the use of liquor into the preparatory schools.

While we believe that a very great deal of wilful exaggeration of the use of liquor by high school children has been indulged in by sensationalists and by those who want to make the Eighteenth Amendment seem to fail, yet there always has been some improper use of liquor and other disobedience of law among high school children. Anything that can bring home to them the evil of it is worth while.

LISTEN, WORLD! -:- By Elsie Robinson

HOW loudly we bewail the Great Pleasures we have missed in life. And how little attention we pay to the Greatest Pleasures which are ours for the taking.

The trouble is that we start out with the wrong idea of pleasure. We think it must come in the form of Shining New Experience. Through travel or romance or fame or business success. Through some spectacular turn which life will take, landing us plump in the midst of joy and content. Then life doesn't take a turn. Instead, it plods right along in the same old path, with the thrill of it oozing out of it bit by bit. Horribly disappointing, isn't it? We feel cheated. We are sure that everything would have been different if our dreams come true.

But everything wouldn't have been different. For by its very nature happiness isn't to be found in spectacular turnings or great adventures. It's your inward reaction which does the trick and not the somersaults Fate may turn.

Look back at your own life. When were you happiest? Was it the night of the big banquet on which you had counted so much? Was it when you went to New York, or the afternoon Dick proposed, or the time you pulled off that deal in copper? No, Queer thing, but the time you should have felt more elated somehow fell flat.

Whereas on the most ordinary occasions, for no reason whatever, joy wells in you like a tide. That night you and Bill rustled a midnight supper out on the kitchen table, or that day you and Edith hiked through the wet Spring woods. Fall evenings coming home through the smoky dusk with the leaf fires flickering along the streets. Spring mornings when you waken at that first gypsy smell which tells the turning of the year. The leap of pleasure from the simplest things—a hearty handshake, a spray of flowers on a garden wall, the merry caper of a little dog, the tingle of the wind across your face—the crackle of the fire on a rainy night.

These are the very warp and woof of living joy. They are so common and so simple that they're never far away. If only we could realize this! What vain regrets and struggles we would save ourselves!

Needs Cribs and Mattress

Editor Helping Hand:

Can you locate a crib and mattress for a dear little baby who is obliged to sleep in a baby carriage which is too short and cramps his little legs. It will be an act of the greatest kindness.

MRS. R. L.

A Godsend

Editor Helping Hand:

I am writing to thank you for the two dollars. I wrote to I. I. M. and thanked him. It was a godsend to me, for I am not able to find work and when I did that I was down to my last cent. I was so relieved that I sat down and cried.

MRS. E. B.

Needs Further Assistance

Editor Helping Hand:

Is there anyone who would be willing to give a little further assistance to a family whose name you sent me. I carried the mother of this family a warm heavy coat, and found them to be really in need. Her husband came a year ago from St. John, N. B., obtained work, and later brought her and the seven children down. He had been suffering from headaches for some time, and delayed going to a doctor until it was found that he had a brain tumor. He was operated on three times, and died after the third operation. She is trying to support the family now by working in a candy factory during the night and caring for her children days. The eight of them have only two beds. The baby is sixteen months old, one about three and others all the way up to fourteen, the latter a girl. She can make anything over for them, she says. Cannot you find some generous person who offers a bed or two to send her way?

MRS. A. P. S.

Thank you for calling our attention to this family's needs.

Thanks From Mother

Editor Helping Hand:

I am Helen Nary's mother. I wish to thank you and all the others that so generously and promptly responded to her appeal. She has now received packages of clothing from Mrs. E. A., for my two little girls, from Mrs. M. M. for herself, from Mrs. C. H. H. for the two girls, Mrs. E. J. came out to see me Sunday and brought clothing for the little girls and myself and also some toys for the children and a lot of nice groceries, which I needed very badly, as I could get only two days' work last week. I received the check for $2.35 that was sent me, and I wish to thank the anonymous donor again.

HELEN MARY'S MOTHER.

Box of Baby Clothes

Editor Helping Hand:

I have a box of baby clothes for a baby from two to six months old, and I would like the name of some deserving person. They are not all new, but there is lots of good wear in them yet. I also have a man's blue suit about size 40 that would do for any working man of that size, and also two pair of women's shoes, size 6, medium width.

M. Y.

Thank you. You have been sent the address of Mrs. G. B., who will be grateful for the baby clothes, and of Mrs. F. E. R. for the other things.

Warm Winter Clothes

Editor Helping Hand:

I have some nice warm clothes I would like to give someone, a good Winter overcoat, a working suit, all-pon sweater, army shirts, all size 40 and shoes 8½, socks, collars and handkerchiefs.

MRS. L. W. P.

Thank you. You have been sent the address of Mrs. F. E. H.

Outfit For Baby

Editor Helping Hand:

I wish to acknowledge the receipt of your letter of the 17th inst. and to thank you for furnishing me with the address of Mrs. H. A. S., the widow, who asked for clothes for her ten months' baby and for whom I promised a complete outfit. I thought it would interest you to know that with the assistance of a shopper of one of Boston's leading stores, I selected the following articles which today have been sent to this woman: one dress, one garitude, one sweater, one pair shoes, two gowns, two pairs of pants, two,

DR. FRANK CRANE ON THE IMPOSITION OF MYSTERY

By Dr. Frank Crane

NOTHING so imposes upon the mind as what it does not understand.

Most of us are thoroughly convinced of our own ignorance, of the limitations of our own capacity, and if anything can be explained to us in simple terms, and we can grasp it thoroughly, we are not likely to think much of it.

When the magician on the stage is doing his trick, if he tells you he does it by the aid of the spirits, and prattles of thought transference, psychic waves, and other things that neither he nor you understand in the least, you are thrilled with that awe which he intends and for which you paid your money.

If on the contrary he tells you the plain truth, which is that his fingers were quicker than your eye, and the whole matter was one of mere dexterity, you feel that you have been cheated.

When the club ladies go to a lecture and listen to a pale young man discourse upon "The Thingness of the What," and he showers them with incoherent ideas even more incoherently expressed, they feel that they have been vastly entertained and instructed.

It is difficult for a work on philosophy to gain great vogue if it is lucidly written and anybody can tell what it means. Somehow we have an inborn contempt for what we can understand.

When the doctor comes to see you, if he tells you that all that is the matter with you is the stomach ache and all you need is a dose of paregoric, you don't think much of that doctor. What he said was nothing but common sense, and anybody would know that. But if he feels your pulse and examines your tongue and tests your blood and shakes his head, and finally declares that it looks very much to him as though it were a case of enteric metabolism of the lalipalooza, you are inclined to think that there is a medicine man who certainly knows his business.

When the preacher explains to you in simple language just what is right and what is wrong and the common sense reasons why, he cannot be much of a preacher, but if he dilates upon the doctrine of metempsychosis and the mysteries of spiritual undulation and advises you to go through a lot of performances for which neither he nor you can see the slightest reason, and assures you that saving faith is faith in something you know nothing about, then he surely must be a most illustrious and reverend guide.

When the banker talks to you of your investments and makes it plain to you that you cannot possibly understand the intricacies of finance and had best leave the whole matter to him, you go away with a feeling that there is a man to trust, but if he makes the whole matter intelligible to you it leaves you with the impression that he cannot be much of a financier or he would not have talked so you could understand him.

One of the unknown laws is that if one knows a thing thoroughly and has imagination and skill of expression he can make another person see it as clearly as himself. Most people do not know things thoroughly, have little skill of expression and are deficient in imagination or they must keep up their reputation, however, and for the reason they use long words and talk a deal without saying anything.

Whenever any man makes any kind of a proposition to you, and winds up by saying that of course you cannot understand it, and that the best thing to do is to trust to him, you have fairly reasonable grounds for presuming either that he does not understand the matter himself or that he does not want you to understand it.

GARRETT P. SERVISS ON MYSTERY OF SUN

By Garrett P. Serviss

"IN reference to the late eclipse, I have read statements that the sun has no material to supply its loss of heat by combustion, so that its continuing to give out heat with no decrease becomes a subject of wonder. But I think the answer is obvious. The sun moves at great speed through space, created immense friction, which produces electricity. This, I think, accounts for the seeming lack of material for combustion.—D. Mc C., G. A. R. Home, West Philadelphia."

Your idea is not in accord with the opinions of astronomers and physicists, who are beginning to think that the main source of the sun's radiation (including light and heat) may be radio-activity, such as is exhibited by the substance called radium. Let this is hardly more than a guess, for the fact is that very little is certainly known about the internal activity of the sun, and the other stars.

Even the suggestion that radio-activity is at the bottom of the sun's action does not throw much light on the mystery, since we are not able to explain radio-activity itself. We can only say that it is a natural process whereby the atoms of matter undergo changes which are attended by the production of radiant energy. Scientific knowledge is largely made up of explanations of this kind, which never reach beyond a certain limit, and which often, it must be confessed, are little more than temporary expedients, or technical formulae.

HEROINES OF HISTORY

LOVED BY A HISTORIAN

By Mark Stuyvesant

TODAY'S feminine progressives who feel that a career must take precedence over love and marriage will find interest and perhaps a new viewpoint in the story of a woman of the middle Seventeen-hundreds who gave up her career when it was at its height because her husband wished it.

Susanne C. Necker appears in the history of France as a patroness of letters—honored, courted, beloved. But records do not tell of her girlhood in the rectory of a none too well-to-do Swiss church where she helped to keep house for her father, the Reverend Mr. Churchod.

Adventure came into Susanne's life together with Edward Gibbon, the historian.

Gibbon, it appears, had become a convert to the Catholic faith while attending college in England. But Gibbon, pere, disapproving his son's action, sent him to the Churchod family, that he might come under the clergyman's influence. And while he lived at the rectory the youth whose work on the Roman Empire was to be unique among writings of all time, fell in love with Susanne, then beginning to give promise of the charm which later made her the toast of Paris.

But again Gibbon, pere, interfered, and the match was broken off.

After her father's death, Susanne earned a precarious livelihood teaching girls in Geneva. later finding employment as governess in Paris. There she met Jacques Necker.

While mutual poverty delayed their marriage many years, the ambition and clear-sightedness of the remarkable woman so fired his energies that he rose from a humble position in a banking house to a responsible place in the world. Wealth and power came to him, and as he progressed Madame Necker's influence kept pace with his development, always increasing.

Not the least notable of Madame Necker's achievements was motherhood. Her only child was destined to become that rare character, Madame de Stael.
